

Pauling prepares for spring

Nobel Prize winner Linus Pauling who the building is titled after, would be proud of the work that the job designers, construction workers, and the money have done to the new science building. It will be ready for class use by spring term. For the first time a photographer has entered the complex to get the "inside view."

Photos by Sue Hanneman

Wednesday, February 18, 1981

Page 5

