

McTeague guest at ASG meeting

Dave McTeague, democratic Congressional candidate for the newly formed Fifth District spoke at last Thursday's ASG meeting, naming education and peace as the most important issues in the upcoming elections.

McTeague feels student loans and aid need to be restored. "I would not have made it through school without student loans. It is pretty basic," McTeague said.

He said without restoring aid, we're "Keeping people away from education."

On the peace issue, McTeague spoke about the situation in Central America saying, we are told "it is some kind of East/West confrontation--that is a big lie." McTeague further stated that it is the same kind of situation we had in Vietnam.

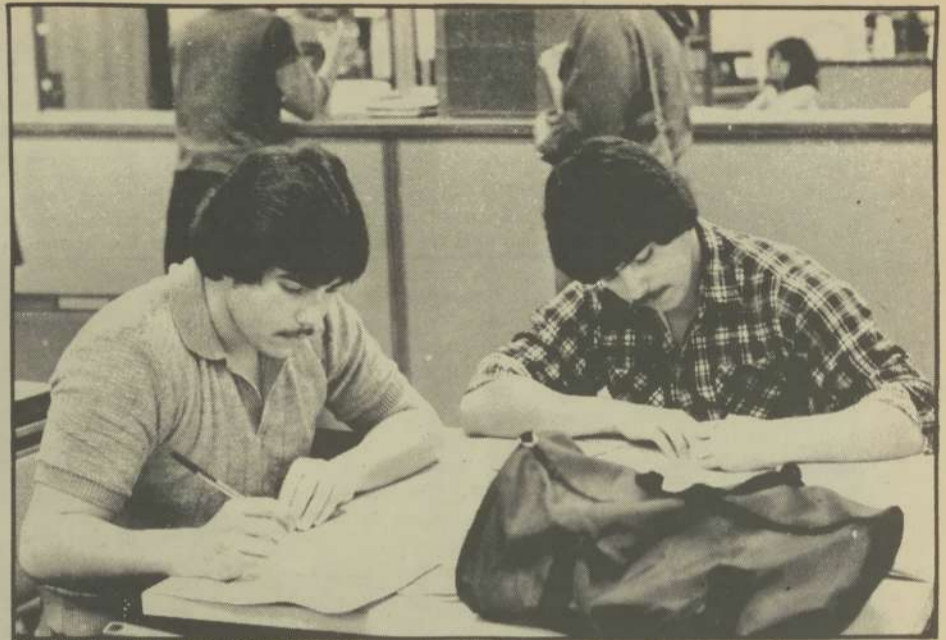

"We need to have an all volunteer military until there is a national emergency," McTeague said, speaking on the draft.

McTeague is very outspoken against republican candidate Denny Smith, labeling him an "ultra-right candidate." McTeague also called Smith a "champion of the New Right."

In his fight against the New Right, McTeague uses the slogan, "Fight back to save America."

McTeague said, "I have the most active record" in the Democratic running. He is currently Oregon's Democratic National Committeeman, and was a delegate to the National Democratic Conventions in 1972, 1974, and 1980.

Jan Wyers in 1979, and Bob Vian in 1977. McTeague was also on the State Senate staff in 1973.

McTeague has been living in Salem since 1969. He graduated from the University of Oregon with a bachelors degree in political science in 1977.

McTeague plans on attending the "Candidates Fair" at the College, scheduled for April 19. The fair is sponsored by ASG.

'Spiritual economics' discussed

By Tracy Sumner
Of The Print

"The Economic Crisis from a Spiritual Perspective" was the theme of a lecture given by Dr. Dan Popov last Wednesday in CC 101. The discussion was sponsored by the Baha'i Club of Clackamas Community College.

Popov, holder of a Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology, stated that the world economic crisis of today is being used by God to point mankind to Himself and greater unity with each other.

"The economic crisis isn't the beginning of the end, but the end of a beginning," he said. "If you really look at the world today, you can see it really makes sense and isn't just chaos. God is in control and He'll use every situation to His advantage."

The Baha'i faith began in Persia in 1844AD when a young man known as "the Bab" or "Gate" announced that he was the fulfillment of prophecy and was to prepare the way for the appearance of the revealer of the word of God, who would usher in an age of peace for all mankind.

Thirteen years after the death of the Bab, Baha'U llah, while in exile in Baghdad in 1863, announced his own revelation, and now is known as the founder of the Baha'i religion.

need for "interdependence of all mankind" and eventually one governing body for the entire world.

"Eventually it will be called for," he stated. "We can't go on the way we are much longer."

Constitution revisions proposed

The Constitution Revision Committee of the Associated Student Government will present its proposed changes at tomorrow's ASG meeting.

The alternatives being suggested for the constitution include elimination of the offices of Business Manager and Publicity Director. Also, the number of senators will be dropped from 20 to 10 and the positions will become appointed, rather than elected.

Joe Schweizer, assistant to the president and member of the revision committee, said the alterations will go before the ASG at tomorrow's noon meeting. "The biggest question to be faced is whether or not the whole student body should vote on the changes," Schweizer said.

According to the constitution, any action which changes the intent of any article therein must be voted upon by the student body. Schweizer felt that such a vote would not be necessary in this case.

Business Manager Steven Vohs disagrees. "These changes are major. They must be voted upon by everybody," he said.

Schweizer explained that any vote would have to take place before the second week of spring term. That is when applications for the ASG executive positions will be open. "It would be unfair to let people apply for a position and then eliminate that job," Schweizer said. "If we put it up for a vote, there would be only two weeks before we could do it; finals week and the first week of the next term. That's just not enough time to present the information to everyone."

The revisions committee consists of Schweizer, Vice-president Susy Ryan and Senator Emma Nelson. Neither Ryan nor Nelson were available for comment. Of the committee, only Nelson plans on returning to the College next year.

Book exchange set

Students who feel they're being ripped off by selling their books back to the bookstore and only getting half of what they originally paid should try using the new book exchange that is being sponsored by the Associated Student Government.

Students will get a chance to price their books at what they think is reasonable and be able to sell or exchange that book with another student.

"We adapted the idea from Chemeketa Community College," said Paul Nastari, ASG Senator. "The program is really well-liked at Chemeketa and we decided to give it a try here at Clackamas."

"Students interested in the exchange should bring their books to the Student Activities office March 15-18 to be sold or exchanged," he explained.

The dates for buying or exchanging the books will be March 29-April 1 and April 5-8 from 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

"We're trying to allow students a chance to sell back their books for more money than the bookstore gives back and also to save the students money," Nastari said. "The students who decide to use the book exchange won't be able to sell their books back to the bookstore and also the time to pick up their money and unsold books will be April 12-16."

"ASG is trying to show the students we're doing something for them," Nastari commented. "The Book Exchange will be more beneficial for all students in the long run."

For more information on the book exchange, interested students should contact the Student Activities Office.
