

Timber festival, hoedown scheduled for May 22

Greased poles, a beer garden and plenty of dancing will be featured at the annual appearance of the "Timber Festival and Hoedown" scheduled May 22.

The festival and dance are being presented this year at the Canby Fairgrounds. Sponsored by the Associated Student Government of Clackamas Community College, the Canby Jaycees are also helping out with a beer garden and food concession.

Participants are welcome to join in the annual amateur contests of the Timber Festival. Events include an axe throw, a pie-eating contest, a greased pole climb and chain saw races. Many other events are scheduled for adults and children.

There is no charge to watch the festivities. A small fee is charged to enter the contests.

The festival begins at 10 a.m. and continues until 5 p.m. The Hoedown begins at 9 p.m. and features "Wheatfield."

Admission for the dance is $3.50 for College students, and $4.50 general. For more information, contact the Associated Student Government.

Haynes to take helm of Print

J. Dana Haynes has been selected Editor in Chief of The Print for the 1982-83 school year.

Haynes, 21, said, "I felt I was at a point where I had to move forward or stagnate." He has been news editor of The Print for the past five terms.

Haynes feels the purpose of the student newspaper is to "keep people informed, to pat people on the back when they do something, and to entertain."

"The last two editors I've worked for (Thomas A. Rhodes and Rick Obritschkewitsch) have set up a standard of professionalism, and I'd like to see that continued," Haynes said.

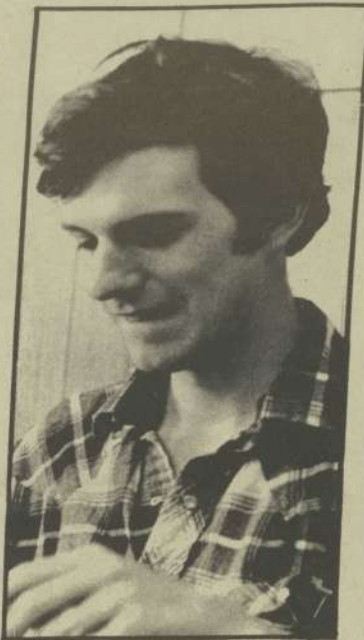

Some of the changes Haynes would like to institute in The Print include experimenting with student polls and new layout designs. Haynes would also like to see more minorities and different age groups represented on The Print staff. In the past years, members of the staff have typically been caucasian between the ages of 18-22 years, with few exceptions.

Obritschkewitsch, the current editor, said "Dana has worked very closely with me this year, as I know he did last year with Tom, and I have no doubts that he will do a fantastic job as editor."

Reflecting on the past two years as news editor, Haynes said, "This paper has been good to me. I think I've learned a lot."

Haynes will be taking over the helm of The Print with the last issue of this term. This will allow him to get an issue out with the aid of the current editor. "It could be pretty tough to just start him at the beginning of fall term," Obritschkewitsch said.

O. City Police urge registration of bikes

It's a good idea to register your bicycle's serial number with the Oregon City Police, especially now since bicycle theft is in season, according to police.

Paul Grady of the Oregon City Police said three or four bikes are being reported stolen every week. "Only about 10 percent of the bikes that we recover are ever returned to their owners," Grady said, "It's hard for us to find the owner of a bike if we don't have the bike's serial number on record."

To register your bike, go to the front desk at the Oregon City Police station between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.; be sure to bring along your bike. For a $1 fee the police department will issue a license sticker for your bike, record your bike's serial number and program it into a computer.

News Flash...

13 year old in accident

There was an accident last night on Beaver Creek Road, approximately 100 yards south of the College.

Joan Nutt, 13 years old, of 19681 S. Beaver Creek Rd., was struck by a car while crossing the street. Nutt was going to get the newspaper from the mailbox.

The driver of the car was not identified, but police did not hold him for questioning.

Nutt sustained head injuries and was rushed to Willamette Falls hospital in Oregon City. The first professional on the scene was Mike Popiel, a third level Emergency Medical Technician with the Happy Valley Fire Department.

Nutt was examined at the hospital and sent home within the hour.

Walk-a-thon scheduled

The Senior Job Center has scheduled a benefit walk-a-thon May 22, and each participant who completes the walk will receive a free hamburger.

The course is a four-mile round trip through the malls in the College. A free box lunch for senior citizens will be offered by Loaves and Fishes after the walk.

The walk begins at 10 a.m. at the Orchard Center. Prizes will also be awarded, with pledges collected by the walkers used to help the Senior Job Center.

Child, home care topic

A workshop designed to help parents manage children and the home "executive style" will be offered at the College, May 20, from 6:30-9 p.m. in Orchard Center, room 121. The fee is $4.

Participants will be shown techniques to develop a "systems approach" to home management. An analysis of personal needs and priorities will be combined with tips from the business world to aid parents with such sticky problems as time management and division of responsibilities.

Raku focus of artists

A two-part workshop on the Japanese art of Raku pottery has been scheduled May 20 and 27 at the College.

This quick firing method utilizes homemade kilns for firing the ceramic works rapidly at high temperatures. Participants will learn the basics and begin the process during the first session, and complete their works during the second. Beginners are welcome at the workshops.

The workshops will be held in the College's Art Center Ceramics Lab from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. There is a $15 fee.

Class looks at divorce

A workshop designed to explore the process of ending a relationship and "letting go" is scheduled May 20 at the College.

"Separation and Divorce" will address issues involved when couples decide to separate. Beginning new relationships and improving self-image after the trauma of divorce will also be discussed.

The workshop will be held in Randall Hall, room 220, from 7-10 p.m. There is a $3 fee.

Students learn to use processing machine

A popular program designed to prepare participants to enter the work force in word processing is being repeated at the College.

The 72-hour course will teach the principles and practices of word processing, plus provide an update on equipment and systems currently in use. Classes begin May 17, and continue through June 9.

The program is divided into two parts, with optional time blocks. Classes are held at Executive Software, Inc. in Oregon City and the fee is $152. Pre-registration is advised.
