

Cougars hang on to play-off hopes

Decisive Clash with Ducks this weekend

Nwamko Livi scored three goals with Sean O'Brien and Brian Gorsek each adding another as the Clackamas Community College Men's soccer team routed Lane Community College 5-1 here last Saturday in an Oregon Inter-College Soccer Association contest.

However, the news for Cougar soccer wasn't all good last week. The team lost a key game with Portland Community College here last Wednesday. The loss was a 2-1 heart-breaker which Coach Janos Szanto felt should have been a Cougar victory.

Szanto partially blamed poor officiating for the loss. Portland won the game on a penalty kick after a very doubtful foul on the Cougar defense.

"It was a bad call," Szanto said. "Portland's coach admitted even that they were lucky to get away with that one. 'It's very upsetting to me as well as the players to lose on a penalty kick," he continued. "We completely outplayed PCC; we just couldn't score."

Szanto pointed to the play of Sean O'Brien, who scored his team's only goal of the day, as a key factor in keeping the Cougars in the game. He also pointed to something much more than the officiating as a factor in the loss.

"Sean played a hell of a game," Szanto said. "We needed 11 others to play as hard as Sean did. We've only had eight or nine playing 100 percent. The others are arguing with each other, arguing with the other team and arguing with the officials."

"The best way to retaliate (to a bad call, for instance) is to score a goal, not arguing."

The arguing by some led to the playing time enjoyed, and used to its fullest, by Livi, a native of Nigeria who came to the United States only 10 months ago. "We needed to make some changes because it seemed everyone was not pulling for the team," Szanto explained.

The split last week leaves the Cougars in third place in league standings and in a must situation for this weekend's match with the University of Oregon. Anything less than a tie by the Cougars leaves them out of the upcoming league play-offs.

Cougar Tales-- Coach Szanto's appearance has undergone some serious change this week. Szanto no longer sports the beard that has been an identifying mark on the Hungarian-born coach.

"I told the guys that as soon as we score four goals that I would shave," he explained. The Cougars collected on the offer last Saturday.

Volleyballers lose see-saw contest

The Cougar Volleyballers were defeated Monday in a five game match against Judson Baptist College. Cougar errors and a tricky set shot by the Crusaders helped to pull the College netters into defeat.

The Cougs quickly fell behind 0-4 in the first game, but two Judson errors gave the team their first points. After an ankle injury to Cougar Leah Ruchonich the netters found themselves behind 4-7. Teri Larsen tipped a short ball into the Crusaders vulnerable mid-court and recovered the serve for Clackamas. After three quick serves by Cougar Susie Smith, the score was evened out at seven and Judson called a time out.

Another short tip into Judson's court put the Cougars ahead for the first time 12-11. Cougar errors gave the Crusaders their last point of the game and the netters finished them off 15-12.

The second game was a different story. The Cougs scratched out the first two points only to fall behind 2-5. More shots into the Crusaders mid court put the netters up 7-5 and Judson called the first time out of the game.

After extended play and five Cougar errors, the Crusaders took the lead at 12-7. The Cougs were only able to score three more points before the Crusaders responded and won 15-10.

The first two points of game three were Judson's but Clackamas chalked up two of their own to tie the match two all.

Error in the Coug's rotation gave the ball back to the Crusaders but the Cougs blasted their way to an 8-4 lead.

Cougar errors and good net play by Judson evened the score eight all and Cougar Coach Loren Swivel called time-out. The two teams divided four more points but the netters excellent play and aggressiveness gave the Cougs a quick five points to win 15-10.

The women started game four two points behind, but a point trade off began and the teams tied at two, five, and because of a Clackamas error, at ten. Swivel called another time out and rotation error took the serve, taking the 12th point from the Crusaders. After tying at 12, Judson crawled away with three more to defeat the Cougars 15-12.

The last and deciding game of the match proved to be the hardest of the five for the Cougars. After extended play the netters scored first on a Judson error but quickly fell behind 2-5. Solid serving by Cougar Sue Frank helped Clackamas fight its way to a seven-all tie, but the cougs gave three easy ones away on errors. Mary Imper scored the last point of the Cougar game with a strong spike into the still undefended Crusader center-court but the Cougs lost 9-15.
