

SANDY, THE COYOTE was an ophaned put that now has a happy home at Scotty's zoo.

ED IN TIGER, Shah, the two-yearberian tiger, rests behind the double-le zoo offers pace enjoyment

Bumper, a dwarf brown bear, was attacked er mother at birth and rescued by resears at the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota. She was ented to Campbell eight years ago. Since ear was a dwarf it would not have been able with the other bears. Campbell said e with the other bears, Campbell said. The fourth endangered animal that is ently on the sanctuary confines is Linda, a h American cougar. She was orphaned by ers and later given to Scotty's.

Filing out the sanctuary population is a pair forth American cougars, a coyote pup, ny goats, a llama, bighorn sheep, a Welsh n miniature horse and assorted geese, s and other fowl.

All the animals have been given to the prota young age. How all the donators find about Scotty's Roadside Zoo still baffles obell.

"I do not know where they have come in act with us. Most of them are just trying to a home for an animal and some end up " Campbell said. "In fact, we are better in Salem and Eugene and some of the r cities in Washington than we are here in tamas County. I can't figure that out. I s it is just where they get their information

Campbell is not worried about the wareness of county residents, but he would to see the sanctuary grow into a tourist at-

"We hope eventually we will build up a st flow to draw people in. That is what this ity needs," Campbell said.

In an effort to encourage County residents' cipation in activities for the promotion of the life sanctuary, the Clackamas County Board ommissioners declared May 14 as Trails End life Sanctuary Day.

Wednesday April 27, 1983

 3.44
 31.41
 72.40
 72.95
 28.37
 54.91
 13.06

 -0.23
 20.08
 -24.45
 16.83
 13.36
 -36.91
 52.00

 0.49
 -19.43
 56.83
 56.80
 -49.49
 30.77
 30.01

82.74 52.79 50.87 3.45 50.88 -27.17 51.39 -12.72 -29.46 Story by Doug Vaughan Photos by Russ McMillen given to Scotty eight years ago.

FEEDING TIME. Scotty helps a young child feed one of the many animals.

LINDA, THE COUGAR helps guard Scotty's zoo. A South American breed, Linda was orphaned by hunters and

Page 5