

Barlow Hall remodeling nearing completion

By Shelley Ball
Of The Print

For those who may not be aware of it yet, the second floor of Clackamas Community College's Barlow Hall has taken on a new look.

The hall is now the site for such programs as ABE/GED (Adult Basic Education/Grade Equivalency Diploma), English as a Second Language and the Learning Resource Center. Some of these programs were previously located in other buildings on campus, but now they have been combined in Barlow Hall for better efficiency.

The decision to combine the programs came from the state Board of Education a little over a year ago, according to Facilities Development and Planning Officer Donald Fisher. Fisher said the arrangement is more efficient because in the past "students had to go all over the place, because there was not that close contact," with the related programs.

Two major types of remodeling have been made in Barlow Hall: the area where the lunchroom and classrooms were located is now a reception and waiting room area, and classrooms B250, B251 and B252 are now the Learning Resource Center. The Barlow Board Room (B204) has had one of its walls moved up to make room for the relocated lunchroom, and another room has been eliminated, giving the board room an additional seven feet.

Fisher said Ability Builders were contracted to do the remodeling, which he said cost just over $44,000. Barrantine, Bates and Lee were the architects, and the remodeling took place over a three-week period. The remodeling is scheduled to be finished sometime after February.

"The timing was a little tight, but due to the fact the classes are all in one area, they will be able to interact," Fisher said. Fisher also said response from the remodeling has been "nothing but good"

NEW AND IMPROVED— brand new office is situated in area where lunchroom was previously located in Barlow Hall.

The second floor of the hall was remodeled in two major areas. Completion of the remodeling is scheduled for sometime in February.

so far.

The combining of three classrooms into the Learning Resource Center will also provide the College with a large open space that could be used for events involving large amounts of people. In the past the College's Randall Gym has been used for such occasions, which Fisher said wasn't the best place acoustically.

Officers increase watch over parking violators

By Heather C. Wright
Of The Print

Public Safety is cracking down on parking violators. Any vehicle parked in a handicapped space without a handicapped parking permit will receive a $5 citation. Those vehicles parked next to a yellow marked curb will be issued a $3 citation.

On the bottom of the citation it states "You are to appear within 10 days of the date of the citation at the Cashier's Office in the Community Center and pay your fine or file notice of appeal. Failure to appear will result in action being taken as set forth by the Board of Education."

The appeals procedure goes as follows:

A. Any parking citation received by an operator may be appealed.

1. By written appeal.

2. By appearing in person or through an authorized representative. Notice of intent to appeal must be in writing.

B. The cited individual may request a recommendation from Security for dismissal of charges because of extenuating circumstances.

C. Forms for appealing a citation are available in the Cashier's Office.

D. The Traffic Appeals Board will hear and review all appeals.

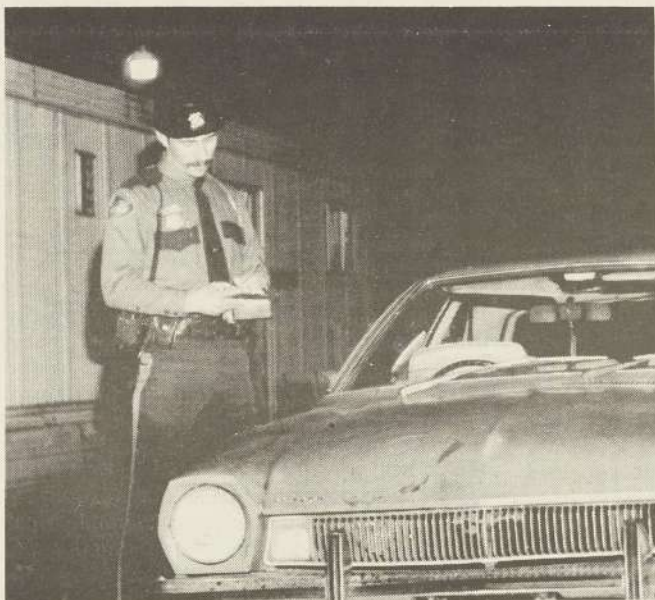

According to Public Safety, traffic violators on campus streets will be treated in the same manner as violators on Oregon City streets.

Students who do not appeal nor pay their citation will not receive their transcripts, nor will they be able to register.

"We don't have a parking problem, we have a distribution problem. Students and teachers want to park near the buildings but they will have to pay the consequences," Chief of Public Safety, Stan Johnson said.

Approximately 1,228 parking citations were issued from July 1, 1982, to July 30, 1983.

Public Safety will make some exceptions on parking regulations, however, arrangements should be made ahead of time at their office.

GOTCHA!— Public Safety officer writes out ticket for caught parking violator on campus. More citations may be issued in the future, as the College's officers are cracking down on parking violators.

County convention set Jan. 21

All registered Democrats are invited to attend a Clackamas County Democratic Platform Convention on Jan. 21 at Clackamas Community College.

Sponsored by the Democratic Central Committee of Clackamas County, the convention will be held in the McLoughlin Theater and will last approximately from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Registration will begin at 8 a.m., and registration fees are $2 plus one can of food.

Wednesday, January 18, 1984

The Platform Convention is designed to provide

Democrats the opportunity to shape policy on issues for their party in Clackamas County, and it is forwarded to the State Platform Convention held in Eugene in March.

Any Democrats with a special concern can form a resolution and submit it to the Platform Committee or present it at the Convention. Some of the resolutions already submitted include the Nuclear Freeze, a Five-Member County Board of Commissioners, Citizens Utility Board, elected Public Utility Commission and reasonable phone rates with the break up of AT&T. Proposed planks will be provided at the convention.

For those interested in joining the Clackamas County Democratic Central Committee, forms for Democratic Precinct Committee person will be available.

Rhapsody Magazine

coming soon to a newsstand near you.

RON & DAN'S Auto Repair
603 7th Ave.
Oregon City, OR 97045

$20.00 Discount on complete brake job with coupon.

4 cylinder tune up includes plugs and rotor $34.95 with coupon (Reg. $49.94)

Corner of 7th & Washington

Coupon expires 4-1-84

656-6148