

Wrestlers face tough competition

The wrestling team at Clackamas Community College will feature five returning competitors and four high school state finalists as they compete against many four-year colleges.

Head Coach Norm Berney said that even though competition at four-year schools is harder, he "thinks we'll be real competitive." Berney said that he felt his team would be a better team because of the stiff schedule.

The team is comprised of about 25 people right now, five of them returning from last year. Larry Tanner, who took second in the regional tournament last year, is back, and will wrestle in the 150-158 pound category. Another returnee is regional champion Robert Young in the heavyweight category. Also returning will be Brian Schutlezer, John Wachsmuth and Lawrence Owen.

Clackamas picked up four students from the high school ranks that all did very well last year. Three state champions that will wrestle for Clackamas this year include Ed Killian, Alan Kimmel and Tim Marcum, all from Tillamook High School. A state finalist from Glencoe, Tom Mannen joined the team, too.

Coach Berney expects the team to grow to 30 members by the start of Winter term in January.

HEAD WRESTLING COACH Norm Berney looks forward to having a tough and competitive season. Coach Berney has five wrestlers returning from last year's team, along with many excellent first-year Cougar wrestlers.
