Foul shots clinch Clackamas win at PCC

Last Wednesday the Men's basketball team defeated Portland Community College on their court 89-84.

Paul Fiskum, the team's assistant coach was enthusiastic about their victory. "It was kind of a sloppy 'helter skelter' game. We either got a lay in or they fouled us then we got the ball," he said.

"They are a very quick team and they apply a lot of pressure. They have a tough defense, so that is where the fast breaks and fouls come in. When you beat that press it creates a fast break opportunity, or you turn it over," Fiskum added.

Foul shots seemed to be the clincher, as Clackamas' team shot 45 of them. Doug Coffman, who was leading scorer of the team, hit 17 out of 19 for a total of 25 points.

"That is a super job. He has hit the pressure free throws all year. They were crucial points and he came through. 17 out of 19 has to be close to the school record," Fiskum said.

Though it seemed to be a tough game with a lot of fouls, Coach Fiskum said his team came through and got the job done in a "very ratty game on the other team's floor. They won it.

"Steve Hansen also had a good night. He took the ball strong to the basket and was six for seven from the field," Fiskum added.

He also noted that having such a good balance of College players really makes for a competitive game. There were five members who scored in double figures and one with eight points.

Doug Coffman had 25 points with three rebounds; Jeff Richards had 10 points with four rebounds; Terry Newton had 13 points and six rebounds; Terry Frison added 13 points and 12 rebounds; Roger Thompson scored eight points with four rebounds and Steve Hansen added 14 points and five rebounds.

Coming up Sunday here at Clackamas, the team plays Walla Walla in a do-or-die situation for the state tournament. Walla Walla is ranked third in their league, though they have beaten both the number one and number two teams.

"They are one of the hottest teams in the league. They have won the last six in a row. If we play up to our abilities we will win the game. We are going to have to shut off their fast break. They love to run," Fiskum said.

Tom Bolt, one of the team's leading players is very confident about Sunday's game. "We should win, from what the coach has told us. We will have to play good. They've won their last five, but we have had good practices and the game is on our home court," he said.

Tim Spreague, the team's former manager and now team member is equally excited. "I am nervous, we have to win, but the coach has scouted pretty good," Spreague said.

The game starts here at 2 p.m. and the team hopes many people will attend.

College hosts top wrestlers

On Feb. 22-23, the Clackamas Community College Athletic Department will be hosting the seventh annual State "A" Wrestling Championships. Top wrestlers from single A high schools all over Oregon will be competing in the meet.

The College's Athletic Department is paid to sponsor the event due to its excellent facilities and large seating capacity.

Concessions will be sold during the tournament by the Clackamas wrestling team.
