Cougars looking hot in early season action

By Julie Miller

A five-game schedule complete with two double-headers kept the Cougar baseball team busy last week.

One of the double-headers was against Umpqua, in which the Cougars achieved a split by winning one game 4-2 and losing the other 12-14. The second double-header was played against Mount Hood. The Cougars won both of those games.

The first game against Mount Hood was a tough one, but Clackamas came out on top with a score of 4-3. In the second game, the Cougars dominated the field to win 12-1.

The Cougars also played against Linfield and won that game in a shutout 12-0.

Coach Paul Roeder was ecstatic about his team's victories. The Cougars have a 3-1 standing. "We are on top of the league. We played a very good second game against Mount Hood. We have a sound defense, clutch hitting and there was a great pitching performance by Brock Birch," Roeder said.

Both Roeder and the players said they thought the wins were due to a strong team effort, aided by support from the bench. Roeder said he is "really proud of this group. They are a dedicated, classy bunch of individuals. I also want to dedicate those two Mount Hood wins to Gene Peterson, the ex-head coach of the Cougar baseball team."

Players commenting on the first game of the Mount Hood double-header mentioned a high point of the game was that the Cougars were able to pull through in the tough spots. A tense moment in the game came in the 11th inning when Mount Hood went ahead 3-2, however the Cougars were able to come back to win the ball game with two of their own. Roeder commended his team's efforts by saying they "don't give up until the last out."

Golfers tune up for league play

By Fritz Wenzel

Three regional golf tournaments have helped the College's golf team tune up for league play, but the team is still making adjustments.

The team has posed two second-place finishes and one third-place finish in their pre-season action and there have been a few sparkling individual performances by Clackamas stickers in those tournaments.

In the Willamette Invitational, held at the difficult McNary Golf Course in Salem, the Clackamas two-man best ball team of Ken Allen and Tom Bolt finished second with Allen posting an individual low score of 73. This was good enough to take medalist honors at the tournament.

The tournament that has tested the staying power of the golfers this pre-season was the Portland Invitational, hosted by West Delta Golf Course and Riverside and Columbia Edgewater Country Clubs. In the three rounds of golf, College veteran player Tom Bolt won individual honors with a 235 score, which averaged slightly over 78 per round.

Coach Jim Hudson said Bolt's performance was less than spectacular, but a good, solid effort for this early in the season.

Monday, the golfers travelled north to Tacoma to play in the Tacoma Invitational and at the end of nine holes, Coach Hudson was sure his team would walk away with the title. The six Clackamas golfers were together only nine over par, as there were three even par 36's, one 37 and a pair of 40's.

Turning for the final nine, the wheels fell off the Clackamas victory wagon as Ken Allen closed with a 40, Steve Vaughn shot 42, Jerry Olson ballooned up 10 shots over his front nine score to 46, John Avery shot a 46 and Scott Grady closed with a 43. The only Cougar to break 40 on the back nine was Bolt, who placed second in the tournament's individual section.

This is the sort of inconsistency Coach Hudson hopes will disappear from the scorecards as the stickers enter league action this Friday in a dual match against Grays Harbor Community College at Arrowhead Golf Club in Molalla.

The College is in a four-team division which Hudson said he expects to do well this year.
