Intramural sports offered

by Christopher Curran
Sports Editor

Football and soccer are two of the competitive sports which Clackamas doesn't have teams for. But, never fear, the Clackamas Community College Intramural Sports Program has a way to combat this.

This fall the program includes Flag football, racquetball, singles tennis, soccer, and even a turkey trot. These sports are intended to promote social interaction and participation instead of competition.

The style in which most of the intramurals will be played is round robin, where a team compiles a win-loss record by playing every team in the tournament. When a playoff round is played, the teams with the best records will advance.

Most intramural action will be played Monday through Friday between 12-1 p.m. or after 3 p.m.

Entries must be in at least two weeks before the Intramural action starts, which is on October 21. The game schedules will be posted two days before Intramural competition in Randall Hall near the athletic offices downstairs.

Flag football will play a round-robin tournament consisting of a minimum of four teams. Team rosters are due Friday, Oct. 17.

Racquetball will be played at Eastside Athletic Club on McLoughlin. Players must be signed up for Intramural racquetball to compete.

The turkey trot will be a 3.1 mile race on Nov. 25. Runners must register by 2 p.m. Nov. 24.

Intercollegiate cross country or track competitors may compete, but for the sake of fairness, they may not win a prize.

The prizes will be... what else? Turkeys! They will be given to the top male and female race winners. Random drawings will be held for race participants for frozen pies.

Thursday, Nov. 13 a 2-4 mile race will be held. This is listed as a Fun Run.

Even though it looks like Clackamas might not have all the sports your heart desires, look at the Intramural Program. You might just find what you're looking for.

Team having successful season

by Christopher Curran

Although the cross country teams are inexperienced, both teams are having what would be called winning seasons. The teams are composed mostly of freshmen.

The men's team, which is composed of all freshmen except one, won first place in the Oct. 4 Fort Casey Invitational at Whidbey Island, Washington.

"It was quite a day for us," stated first year coach Mike Hodges. This is the second year in a row and the fourth year out of five that Clackamas Community College has won the Fort Casey Championship.

The team is led by freshman Mike Smith from Lacey, Washington. Smith accounted for a string of number one finishes for Clackamas this season.

Team captain, Springfield's Greg Suiter, is the only sophomore running. According to Hodges he has "been consistent."

Other runners having a good year are Scott Sheldon from Springfield, Jerry Durant from Oregon City, and Dan Muse from North Bend.

Hodges came to Clackamas from Southwestern Oregon Community College where he was the Athletic Director, and coach for the cross country and track teams. He threw the javelin and was co-captain of the 1965 championship track team from University of Oregon.
