Barrington and Duncan will read at CCC

Northwest Writers' Series

Clackamas Community College is bringing several authors and poets to the campus this fall. We would like to invite you to attend. The readings are free. If you have any questions, please contact Mike Kepler (657-8400, ext. 334) or Craig Lesley (282-9842).

Wednesday, December 3, 7 p.m., in Barlow 237, Judith Barrington will read poetry.

Barrington is the author of "Trying to be an Honest Woman," an award-winning collection of poems. Her work has appeared in Northwest Magazine and numerous anthologies. She is a freelance journalist and West Coast Editor of "Motherroot Journal."

Friday, December 5, at noon in the McLoughlin Theatre, David James Duncan will visit campus. Duncan's bestselling novel "The River Why" has become a north-west classic. This was the first novel published by Sierra Club Books, and it became a Book-of-the-Month Club selection.

Duncan's novel-in-progress "The Brothers K" deals with a minor-league baseball family from Camas, Washington, and is scheduled for publication in Fall, 1987. He will read from his works and discuss Northwest writing.

Calendar

CCC hosts faire

More than 30 local artisans will display their handmade crafts for sale at Clackamas Community College Dec. 9-10.

The two-day faire will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Community Center Mall. Admission is free.

This is the tenth year the college has hosted the Christmas Crafts Faire. It is sponsored by the Student Activities Office.

For more information, call ext. 245.

Drummer plays

Drummer Mel Brown and quintet will perform in a free concert Wednesday, Dec. 10, at Clackamas Community College.

Brown, who has been a regular performer at the Mt. Hood Festival, will play at 7 p.m. in the Community Center's First Lounge. The concert is free and open to the public.

Brown, who is recognized as one of the most accomplished and versatile drummers in the world, has toured for the past four years with Diana Ross. He was also featured on a recent HBO special with Dionne Warwick, Patty LaBelle, and Bob Knight.

The concert is sponsored by the Clackamas Community College Humanities Department. For more information, call ext. 245.

When you finish the quiz, put it back in campus mail to PIO. We'll tabulate the results, synthesize a composite vision, and report back to you.

Draw Your Logo Here . . .

Win a trip to Bora Bora!

(Just kidding. But we will print the most promising ideas in an upcoming issue of FYI. Really!)

Fill In the Blank

- If CCC were a car, what kind of car would it be?
- If CCC were a department store, which one would it be?
- If CCC produced a T.V. commercial, which T.V. commercial would you want it to be like?
- If CCC published a magazine, which magazine would you want it to look like?
- What are the three most important benefits we offer to our students? (1-3 word max)

We can't guarantee that the graphic identity program finally approved will be exactly what you envisioned. But we'll promise this: if you'll take the time to tell us what you want for CCC, we'll do our best to come up with a visual identity that reflects your vision.

When you finish the quiz, put it back in campus mail to PIO. We'll tabulate the results, synthesize a composite vision, and report back to you in a future edition of FYI. Deadline for returning completed quizzes to PIO: Tues. Dec. 2.

Essay (25 word max)

What is your vision of Clackamas Community College in the year 2000?

Visual Identity: It's More than a Logo

Development of a consistent college "look" has many useful benefits. In addition to visual consistency, the process of capturing institutional identity in graphic form promotes a review of college objectives and aspirations. The development of a "logo" helps college staff develop common objectives and goals. It forces us to ask where we want CCC to be in the years ahead.

This common look can then be universally applied to publications, letterhead and business cards, campus signs, uniforms and college vehicles, and other applications.

Free band concert

Clackamas Community College music students and musicians from the community will join together Monday, Dec. 8, for a free jazz concert.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the Community Center. It will feature the Big Band jazz sounds of Bill Holman, Don Menza, Gerry Mulligan, Sammy Nestico, and others.

Featured soloists will include Jeff Homan on tenor saxophone, Ed Buckley on trumpet, and Dan Donahue on piano. The band will be directed by trombonist Dave Bryan.

HOW TO STUDY FOR EXAMS... AND PASS

This valuable report shows how to handle material in your toughest course so that you know it for your exams.

There's a study plan based on the principles of learning that eliminates a lot of forgetting and impresses the mind with material you have to know so it sticks... in some cases indefinitely. (It's a matter of using the learning process for your advantage.) There's even a plan on how to cram if that's what you have to do.

Get a copy. Save time, worry and get better grades in every course you ever take. Send $2.75 plus 25¢ for handling to College Study Associates, P.O. Box 06828, Portland, OR 97206.

YOU COULD PROBABLY THINK OF A LOT OF BORING WORK TO SAVE $25.20 FOR YOUR EDUCATION.

We haven't seen many bored soldiers, though. We used to seeing young men and women earn vocational/technical school money by learning about high-tech tanks or truck engines or radio communications. And by getting into rock-hard physical shape.

As soldiers, they can earn up to $25,200 for their vocational education, if they qualify. They save $1,200 from their first 12 months' paychecks. The government chips in $9,600 and the Army, $14,400. On top of all that, they also receive a good salary, food, lodging, and medical coverage.

You could be one of them. Ask your local Army Recruiter about the GI Bill Plus the Army College Fund. And he can turn saving money for your education into a matter of interest.
