Sculpture Show In Pauling

Sculpture is the theme of the art show taking place at the Pauling Art Gallery. The sculpture show was arranged by Les Tipton and Rick True, both Clackamas Community College professors in the art center. Centering on regional artists, invitations were sent as far south as Bend, Oregon and extended as far north as Spokane, Washington. The invitations were sent to sculptors known by Tipton and True, including a few alumni of Clackamas Community College.

The showing, running from Jan. 5 until Jan. 30, was organized to promote the new sculpture garden outside of the ELC. It is hoped that the sculpture in Pauling will spark some inspirations for the new garden.

Sculpture is not just carving things out of stone, it has many different styles. The Pauling exhibit displaying many of these varied styles includes: cast bronze, "American Cat" and "Parihelios; found object," "Modern Pet"; marble, "Voyager"; and mixed media, "Ascension." These are just to name a few.

Sculpture is one way for an artist to display his or her personal self without using words. They are single impressions that may convey whole concepts. All students and staff are urged to look and view these displays in Pauling Centers Art Gallery.
