AMEN...

by Thad Kreisher
Contributing Writer

Brothers.....sisters, we are gathered here today.....to hear the word, as told to me in a vision I had late last night.

Not many are chosen to receive divine visions of wisdom friends. John the Revelator, Peter, Moses, Ezekial....and yes, Thad. But, before I impart to you the word as spoken to me by our Lord, let me deliver to you a few messages friends.

I noticed last Sunday, right here in our own congregation, something that disturbed me. Yes, I did brothers and sisters. And I think you'll agree that it should disturb all God fearin' Christians everywhere in this great land of ours.

Last week, there was a boy. A young man of sixteen or so, sittin' right down there in the pews. Now that might not seem so unusual to you, but this boy, I noticed, was wearin' jeans. And he was wearin' sneakers. And he was wearin' a plain white t-shirt. And he had long scraggly, greasy hair. And the whole time I was deliverin' the word, this boy was a'smirkin' and I could just tell that inside, he was mocking. Yes! He-was-mocking!

(Cries of dismay from the congregation.)

Now I know that gen'rally speakin', all are welcome in the house of the Lord, brothers and sisters. But!....and I think you'll agree with me when I say that the Lord does not approve of this sort of thing on Sundays. Young man, if you're out there today, I'd like to remind you that this ain't no high school, and this ain't no sleazy street corner that you hang out on. This is a church!

(Cries of amen from the congregation.)

And if Jesus Christ were here today, believe me, he'd be wearin' his Sunday best for you. (More amens.)

And I know, yes, I know that Jesus had long, scraggly hair. But I would like to remind you that in those days, they didn't have no barbers.

But now we do. This is 1987, the United States of America, not pre-historic Israel, and we have barbers.

I think you get the point brothers and sisters.

Well, friends, it looks like we're just about out of time for this week. The ushers are now goin' to pass around the offrinn' plate. So dig deep friends, WAAAAYYY down into those pockets and give all you can. Remember, we also take checks, VISA, and MASTERCARD. And, as the Lord said, "Render unto Ron what is Ron's, and render unto me....uh, I mean, render unto God what is God's." Gen'rally speakin' friends, the Lord's tax returns are greater than the fed'ral's. There will be coffee and doughnuts in the foyer. Amen.
