Leonard beats Hagler,
among other things

Curran's Corner

by Christopher Curran
Sports Editor

From the halls of Randall to the center of the community I come to ya once again from my office in Trailer B.

Today's topic: I don't have one. (I've always wanted to do that.)

In this time of great despair, writer's block as it's commonly referred to, I don't think it would be too terribly wrong if I relay on to you some sports facts and ideas I have heard recently.

I would be remiss if I didn't mention Sugar Ray Leonard's boxing victory over Marvelous Marvin Hagler. Marvin, you didn't look very marvelous Monday night.

The number 13 proved to be unlucky for Hagler, who was defending his WBC middleweight title for the 13th time. It was the second time Leonard came out of retirement; two times is all it took.

Baseball season is upon us. The major league season started Monday and the college season started in March.

Baseball and softball are both fun to play, but unless you're a diehard fan, it's kind of slow moving on television, in my opinion.

A college basketball rules committee said last week that the three point line in college basketball will stay the distance that it is. More than 35 percent of the coaches who were questioned were in favor of moving the three point line back nine inches.

The ruling comes after a season of controversy over the distance of the line (including the "Curran's Corner" of The Print's Feb. 11 issue).

The same rules committee made some changes for the 1987-88 college basketball season. The most notable of these says that when an intentional foul is called, the team who was fouled will keep possession of the ball. Before this, it was the team who fouled who got to keep the ball.

With another term of classes comes another term of intramurals. Deadline for registration for coed softball is Friday, April 10. Each team must have at least three females per game. Competition will take place Mondays. See Kathie Woods (ext. 418) for more details.

Did you enjoy that as much as I did. Good. I'll talk to you next time; maybe outside if the weather is nice. We'll see.
