

CCC budget approved
Page 4

Jeanne Barnett
Page 9

New columnists
Page 2 and Page 11

THE NEW PRINT

Vol. XX No. 20

Clackamas Community College

Oregon City, OR 97046

April 29, 1987

Women's program invites students

by Heleen Veenstra
News Editor

The women's program steering committee has decided on the special tasks each member has to do, and they also invite women students and staff to join the committee.

"Everyone on the committee has a job," Bernie Nolan, counselor said.

Donna Ford has agreed to coordinate the program and be the official chairperson, with the help of all the committee members.

Ellen Burbridge will coordinate the outdoor events, which will include a fall hike. Gayle O'Toole will coordinate the issues breakfast. The breakfast will be for the whole community.

Brown bag sessions, which are sessions for study and survival skills, are for all students, and will be coordinated by Sharon Hartsell and Judy Peabody; Linda Vogt and Bernie Evans will do the publicity.

Carolyn Knutson and Bernie Nolan will do the classes, schedule and coordinate the displaced homemakers.

The fall term women's orientation will be coordinated by Bernie Nolan and Donna Ford. The social events, which will be for women of the CCC staff, will be coordinated by Carol Peterson. Others will be done by Janelle Hoglan.

"The point of all this is that women's groups tend to work in a coordinated manner, where everybody takes a piece of responsibility," Nolan expressed.

The program is for students, women of the community, and for women that are considering to go back to school, the purpose is an information network through the college.

"We would really like student involvement," Nolan concluded.

Field trip ends in injury

by Dean Grey
Editor

April 16, the U.S. Coast Guard was called into action to rescue a young lady from Clackamas Community College who was injured during a Biology field trip.

Sherri Michaels, 21, was out "tide pooling in the low tide zone" when she got tangled in some field grass. The result was a twisted ankle with some bruised nerves. "It took me about five minutes to realize how bad it was other than screaming in silent pain," said Michaels.

The Depot Bay Fire Department arrived on the scene about 9:15 a.m. some 15 minutes after the accident occurred. They put a splint on the leg and then decided to call the Coast Guard to air lift her out because they said it would be too hard to rapel her up the cliff.

"That was an experience (riding in the helicopter) because they put you on something called a stoke and when they strap you in - over your legs, your abdomen and across the upper part of you arms. On the way up you can feel the gravitational pulls when they go up, down or sideways and it really hurts especially if you are really injured."

They flew her to the Newport hospital where they did some tests, x-rays, and "twisted it to see how much it hurt."

She was back in school the next day on crutches, and doing very well. "Every once in a while you do something just wrong and the pain comes back," she said.

Sherri Michaels shows off her souvenirs

SOFTBALL

Photo by Von Daniels

John Hooley and "The Fighting Ducks" take a swing at intramural softball.

Speakers take 2nd

by Sherri Michaels
Staff Writer

Clackamas Community College's speech team took second in the North West Community College Regionals this weekend at Lower Columbia Basin Community College.

"We were there to kick some..."

"We saved our grade and had a comfortable ride home..."

"We were there to kick some..." said David Gloden. That they did with an impressive first in debate by Barbara Clark and Monte Campbell. Also Eric Nordhager and Bret Truebranch placed third with fourth place going to Tony Fetter and Rich Burroughs.

Fetters also was a finalist in both impromptu and extemporaneous advocacy. Shelly Kisor placed third in expository. Jill Overfield was a finalist for Michael Sheets and Gloden, respectively, placed second and third in oral interpretation, and also in the after-dinner speech.

Gloden and Sheets made a dynamic duo for duo interpretation where they "conquered" first place. Though they had been "threatened by Frank (Harlow) to walk home if we didn't," according to Sheets. But "we saved our grade and had a comfortable ride home," said Gloden.

"The debate team will be rated fourth in the nation at the end of the school year," said Harlow the Speech coach. Also the speech team is ranked 81 out of 323 in the second and four year colleges for the nation.

Also at the regionals were Bob Jones and Kelly Orfield.

Frothingham captures CCC election

The elections are over and the polls are in. Neal Frothingham is the new president of the Associated Student Government at Clackamas Community College.

When the ballot boxes closed, Frothingham led 103 votes to 44 against his opponent Dana Dumolt. Beckie Hostetler was elected as the new vice president with 121 votes. Both Frothingham and Hostetler have had past ASG experience.

Neal Frothingham will be replacing Pattie Groombridge in the presidential office. Larry Levi, ASG vice president, will be bowing out to make room for Hostetler.

Positions for selected officers still need to be filled. Applications for these positions are due Friday, May 1 at noon. Information and applications may be obtained at the student activities window.

