"Our only goal was for each player to improve and reach their maximum potential and play the best they could," stated softball coach Paul Fiskum on his team's season.

At Tuesday night's awards banquet, Fiskum gave awards for most valuable player, best defensive player, best offensive player, most improved player, and most inspirational player, which were voted on by team members.

Most valuable player honors went to pitcher Wendy Morton. She had "an excellent year pitching," according to Fiskum. With a 13-9 record pitching, Morton lead the team. On the other side of the mound, she produced the third best batting average of .245.

Sherrri Levi was awarded best defensive player. She played the most consistent defense according to Fiskum. Levi started all but one game this season at her third base position.

Winner of the best offensive player was Kim Stewart, who had the second best batting average at .288. Stewart led the Cougars in hits, runs, singles, home runs, and stolen bases. She was "a real threat offensively," said Fiskum.

Jo Kaiser won honors as the most improved player. She came in fourth in batting at .240 after not playing softball for two years. Fiskum stated that she was "a little rusty," but came on and improved.

Most inspirational player went to Milwaukie's Angie Downey. "She had a lot of spirit," exclaimed Fiskum. "She did a lot of yelling from the bench."

"I was happy with the way the team came together," stated Fiskum, "I was also happy to make the playoffs. It was a good accomplishment."

Michelle Day, from Molalla, was the team's number one hitter and the only player with an average over .300 at .309.

Fiskum said that she switched positions. "All her life she's played third base.. this year we moved her over to second."

"Petrece Kraft played almost every inning this season," according to Fiskum. "She was one of the best catchers in the league."
