

News Briefs

Alcohol awareness day

Associated Student Government will be sponsoring a "Campus Alcohol Awareness Day" Oct. 21 in conjunction with "National Alcohol Awareness week."

Seminars on topics relating to alcohol use and drunk driving are scheduled from nine a.m. to one p.m. in the Community Center's Fireside Lounge.

The seminars will be led by Wayne Smith, Clackamas County Sheriff, and Kay Glazer, President of Clackamas County Mothers Against Drunk Driving.

For more information drop by the ASG office in the Community Center.

Tour Bonsai Festival

A special one-day tour of the Portland Japanese Gardens to see fall colors will take place Sunday, Oct. 18. Transportation and admission to the Fall Bonsai Festival are included in the $8 cost for non-members of the ELC. For more information, call extension 351.

ELC tour

The John Inskip ELC will present a survey of wildlife and cultural and natural histories found from the Willamette Falls Locks to the South Yamhill Region and wine country on Oct. 17, from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. The tour will include discussion of farming, agriculture, and timber practices, and visits to wineries and the Trappist Abbey Monastery. Cost is $25 for non-members.

Run for funds

Run for 2.8 miles, bike for 20, then run for 3.5. This fundraiser for CCC track teams is co-sponsored by the Community Recreation and Athletic departments. It will happen Oct. 18; the $20 registration fee includes a T-shirt. For information, call extension 211.

Brown performs

Jazz drummer Mel Brown will demonstrate his style Oct. 21 at the college. Brown, regarded as one of the finest jazz drummers in the country, will perform at 7 p.m. in the Fireside Lounge.

Brown began his musical career at age 19. He performed with the Temptations, the Four Tops, the Supremes and the Beatles. He has spent the last five years touring the U.S. and Europe with Diana Ross.

The free concert is sponsored by the English Department as part of its Humanities Experience class. Contact Mike Kepler at ext. 285 for more information.

ASG News

ASG encourages all students to register to vote in time for the Nov. 3 college levy election. Voter registration forms are available at the Student Activities Office through Oct. 13.

Alcohol Awareness Day is Oct. 21. A variety of programs and presentations will be available to inform students about alcohol abuse.

ASG will be swearing in newly-elected senators Oct. 16 in CC 101 at 12:30. Students are encouraged to stop by and see who their representatives are, and to voice their opinions. ASG budgets $115,000 annually for a wide variety of programs and activities for students. Your opinions on how we can best allocate those funds are important.

ASG would like to thank those students who volunteered their time to help select officers and senators.

The next ASG dance will be a Sadie Hawkins dance on Oct. 30.

Writing novels

Conrad Haynes, local author and reporter, will discuss how the average person writes a novel tonight at 7 p.m. in the McLoughlin Theatre.

Haynes is the author of "Bishop's Gambit, Declined," a mystery novel published in June by Bantam books. His second book is due out in April.

Haynes, 27, attended Clackamas for four years, and received a degree in political science from Lewis and Clark College. He is a reporter for the Lake Oswego Review. Although known locally as J. Dana Haynes, he uses a pseudonym for his books.

There is no charge for the talk, which is one of several events sponsored by the English Department as part of its Humanities Experience class. Call extension 285 for more information.

Levy party held

Over 100 members of the classified staff, faculty, administration, and student body of Clackamas Community College volunteered for a mailing party held on Oct. 7 in the small dining room. The purpose of the party was to encourage local voters to vote "yes" on an upcoming levy election Nov. 3.

Sixty-four thousand letters were sent out all over the county providing facts about the college levy.

Photo shoot

Photographing fall colors and natural splendor at Silver Creek Falls is the subject of a special photography field course to be conducted by the ELC. A preview class on Oct. 20, from 7 to 9 p.m., will focus on basic scenic and close-up techniques. Cost of the course is $35 for non-members.

Vocational transfer programs considered

by Helen Veenstra
Editor

"We (Clackamas Community College) would examine our existing curriculum that would be compatible with OIT's (Oregon Institute for Technology) curriculum," said Bob Ellis, assistant dean educational services, when discussing an idea that would enable students in vocational programs here to transfer to OIT.

The OIT is a state institute located in Klamath Falls, which offers vocational programs for college students. Clackamas College is looking into a program for which CCC will provide the lower division works, and OIT the higher division works.

Ellis explained that there are two options the college has to choose from-enroll the students OIT in Klamath Falls, or keep them in Clackamas County.

In order to keep the students here two buildings need to be acquired. The first phase of the project is to occupy an elementary school, located on Harmony Rd., near Clackamas Town Center. The second phase will be occupying a junior high school, across from the elementary school.

The elementary school will be renovated and remodelled which will cost the college $200,000. It is expected to be done June 1988 and will be ready to be occupied Sept. 1988.

The junior high building will be occupied 3-5 years later than the elementary building. It will cost the college a million dollars to renovate and remodel it.

"The only cost we will have is paying half the cost of the facility and the maintenance of that facility." The county will pay $1.2 million, the college will pay $1.2 million and OIT will pay $1.3 million for this operation, Ellis said.

The advantage of this project, according to Ellis, is that it "gives students some opportunities in this county for education."

Mt. Hood and Portland Community Colleges already have programs like this with OIT. They have a curriculum which integrates with OIT that CCC does not have. "We might have to do some modifications, to make sure that students can transfer without any problems."

The new buildings acquired by CCC are in a "wonderful location" with regard to transportation, population and business activity. "It's located in the center of population in our district. To have a facility where most of the people live I think is very important. The center of business development and training will be up there. We are a little unique not to have the college in the center of the population."

"It makes a very good investment for the college to acquire," Ellis concluded, explaining the significance of acquiring new space and student opportunities by this project.

Smoking allowed where?

by Caree Hussey
Staff Writer

"It's working really well," said Debbie Baker, Student Activities Director, about the new smoking policy, "I haven't heard of any major problems."

The smoking areas were moved due to complaints from non-smokers who didn't like to walk through the smoke polluted areas. The new smoking areas are in better ventilated, less traveled places. The places where smoking is allowed are the Skylight Room in the Community Center building, the lower lobby by the mural in Barlow Hall and the gym lobby in Randall Hall. All other places, including rest rooms and all CCC vehicles are non-smoking areas.

If you see someone smoking in a no smoking area, you are asked to do the following:

1. In a calm, reasonable manner, inform the individual that he/she is smoking in a No Smoking area. Give the location of the nearest "Smoking Area," and request that the individual move to that area.
2. If the individual does not respond to your request to move to a smoking area, inform the Building Officer, a supervisor or administrator.
3. If still no response, call Public Safety at 657-8400, ext.302 or 303. Public Safety can also be paged through the switchboard, dial "0." (Public Safety will try to get voluntary compliance. If necessary, however, a citation may be issued.)

If you have any questions, comments or suggestions, contact Debbie Baker in the Student Activities Office.

  - This is a 12% increase over the current rate of $1.25 per $1000.
  - The cost of operating the college to the average district residence (assessed value: $65,000) will amount to $89 per year — an increase of less than $8.
  - This levy will limit the tax rate to a maximum of $1.37 for two years (through June 30, 1990).
  - This levy is for operating budget only, not for construction.
  - CCC will bill account for less than 6¢ of your property tax dollar.
  - CCC will still have the second lowest tax rate of all Willamette Valley community colleges.
- CCC's tax rate has not increased in six years.
  - The cost-of-living index in the Portland area has risen nearly 17% during the same period.
  - CCC has already made major cutbacks to hold the line on taxes. Since 1984, CCC has:
    - ✓ reduced administrative staff by 27%
    - ✓ reduced classified staff by 11%
    - ✓ dropped four athletic programs
  - CCC will implement a $20 per term tuition increase beginning Summer, 1988.
- CCC's enrollment has grown 13% in the last two years.
  - CCC served more than 21,000 community residents in 1986-87.
  - Nearly one-third of college-bound seniors graduating from district high schools start at CCC.
  - Enrollment is projected to increase again in 1988.
- CCC is playing a critical role in the economic recovery of Clackamas County.
  - CCC brought nearly $7 million in outside revenue to Clackamas County last year, from sources such as grants, financial aid, and state reimbursement.
  - CCC provides special training to the work force of the county's major employers, including: Fred Meyer, Tektronix, Precision Casparts, Safeway, Stanley Tools, and Omak.
  - CCC's Small Business Development Center has provided start-up and management assistance to more than 500 local small business owners since 1984.
- This is a mail-in election.
  - Ballots will be mailed to registered voters on October 16.
  - Ballots must be returned to Elections Office by November 3.
  - To receive a mail-in ballot, you must be registered by October 13.
  - For more information about voter registration, contact the Clackamas County Elections Office, 825 Portland Ave., Gladstone, OR 97027 (phone 655-8510).
- If you have any questions, please ask!
  - For more information on the budget, the election, or Clackamas Community College, please call President John Keyser, 657-8400, ext. 405.
