Chick Hearn: An original

You know him as the voice in the AM/PM Mini-Market ads, the man who would rather talk to Frank Belcher about a chicken sandwich than the other convenient store enthusiast, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

The voice in the television and radio ads is that of Los Angeles Lakers Sportscaster Chick Hearn. You may also have seen Chick in the movies whenever a Hollywood producer feels the need for stereotypical sights and sounds of sportscasting.

But he is more than that. Hearn is the father of such basic basketball terminology as "back-door" and "slam-dunk." Creative clichés just roll off his tongue. Sometimes he needs to slow his mouth down to allow the game to catch up. And while that mouth is running, some things fall out that you're sure even Chick doesn't hear.

Chick is available to Portland via satellite television. Thank goodness that a town convicted to a life sentence of Bill Schonely still has some vehicle for escape. Thank you technology for the clever, colorful, and informative ramblings of a man known in LA simply as "Chick."

-(on Ricky Green) "You have to give him a seven or eight yard cushion because he can outrun half the cars in the parking lot."

-(on Lasalle Thompson's poor shooting) "A couple more bricks like that and there'll be a new chimney for Santa."

-(on a referee's no call) "No harm, no blood, no whistle, no ambulance."

-(on a ticky-tack foul) "I've hit Marge harder than that going down the hall and she didn't even say 'Hi.'"

-(on a player's complaint) "Polynice says 'He's holding my arm,' the ref says, 'You'll get used to that.'"

-(on Tyrone Bogues travelling) "He did the bunny-hop in the pea patch. If the peas get any higher you won't see him."

-(on Jeff Lamp's shot) "He has such a pretty form. So does that lady over there with Josh."

-(on Jerry Sighting's hot streak) "I don't believe it and I don't think his mother does either. If she did, she'd call him in and spank him."

-(on Mychal Thompson's air-ball) "If there was a window in this building, I would've thought the wind was blowing."

-(on himself) "That's the way I see it from where I'm sitting, and I'm sitting very high. This is the first time I've worn a parachute to do a game."

-(on James Bailey's weight) "They ought to put him on a treadmill for about a month. He is really fat."

-(on Kareem getting a loose ball) "And Kareem says look what I found. Kareem saw a quarter down there, was going to pick it up and the ball came."

-(on Kareem's lazy play) "Kareem was open but he was taking a siesta. Now he takes his sombrero off and passes out to the Coop."

-(on James Worthy missing a dunk) "The mustard's off the hot dog."

-(whenever the Lakers ice a win) "This game is in the old Admiral Refrigerator. The door is closed, the lights are out, the Jello's jiggling, the eggs are coolin', and the butter is getting hard."

CLACKAMAS 65 SW OREGON 58

Following their 65-58 triumph Saturday night over Southwestern Oregon Community College, the Clackamas Community College women's basketball team locked up the Northwest Athletic Association of Community Colleges Southern Division title.

The dumping of the Lakers, now 2-8 in league and 3-12 for the season, gave Clackamas their fifteenth consecutive victory. The streak started Dec. 22 when Angela Hewlett's 25 points propelled the Cougars past Frazier Valley 89-66 in Randall Hall.

Saturday night it was freshman Leslie Hughes powering her way to a team high 17 points and 10 rebounds to lead the Cougars to a 10-0 Division record.

On her way to a game high 12 assists, Angela Hewlett tacked on 14 points and freshman guard Tracy Jones finished in double figures with 10 points.

"The girls really played with the intensity that counted," remarked Head Coach Phil Garver.

"Feels like normal," exclaimed Assistant Coach Jim Hill about being on top of the Southern Division.

The Lakers out scored the Cougars 16-6 to transform a 34-24 Clackamas halftime lead into a neck and neck 40-40 tie game with 12 minutes left in the contest.

Defense played a key in keeping control of the game down the stretch, in particular Hewlett's concentrated pursuit of the SWOCC guards.

"She (Hewlett) really did a good job the last three times down the court," stated Garver.

Sophomore Ann Warren led all scorers with 28 points while freshman Tina Brummell and Sage Quilici each added nine points. Quilici hauled down a game high 15 rebounds for the Lakers, who were outrebounded by Clackamas for the game, 48-33.

CLACKAMAS 66 UMPUQA 51

The Cougars had four players score in double figures as the Cougars embarrassed Umpqua Community College 66-51 Friday in Randall Hall.

Hewlett led all scorers by netting 14 points. Hughes mastered 12 points, Jones 10, and sophomore Mitzi Finn notched 10 points and claimed a team high 14 rebounds.

Garver was impressed with Hughes' performance over both games. She was sick with the flu and "almost sat out Friday night," according to Garver.

"She played with a lot of guts." Clackamas got a big boost from the bench over the weekend which aided in their victories.

"We have good depth," stated Hill, "if someone is having a bad night, there's usually someone on the bench who can do the job."

The Cougars finish their season with a matchup at Lane Community College Friday and back home for a season finale at Linn-Benton Saturday.
