THEPRINT

Vol. XXII No. 3

Wednesday, October 19, 1988

Clackamas Community College

Oregon City, Oregon

News

Digest

Garnett 's art

to be shown

The Clackamas Community

College Art Department presents Solo-Bill Garnett, a collection of drawing, painting and mural design. The show will be in the Pauling Gallery from Oct. 19- Nov. 17. There will be a reception for the artist

Oct. 20 from noon to 2 p.m.

Gallery hours are: Monday through Thursday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday by appointment. For more information call the CCC Art

Child care facility in jeopardy

By Caree Hussey Feature/Managing Editor

Students may no longer have on-campus child care available to them after this year.

The Child Care Center, located in the Orchard Center, has been open since 1968. It is currently licensed for 40 preschoolers (two and a half years to six years) and 8 infant toddlers (six months to two and a half years). There are 41 children enrolled there now. There is also an information and referral service offered. Both are operated by Camp

The problem is that the Orchard Center is slated to be torn down in July 1989 due to the many maintenance problems encountered. There has been no final decision made as to whether to tear down and relocate or to keep fixing up the existing building as yet.

The Board is now considering this and the issue of what is the role of the college in providing day care on campus.

"We would like to stress parent education," said Carolyn Knutson, department chairperson of Family-Human Services

Other goals, according to Knutson, include training family day care providers and short term specific training for child care workers. The difference between family day care and day care centers is that family day care is generally run by one person (usually female) in her home taking care of three to eight

"We would like to stress parent education"

-Carolyn Knutson

children who aren't her own, whereas a day care center has several workers and more chil-

Input on the child care issue was gathered via a survey in the June 1 issue of The Print and was also passed out in a Nursing 100 -

Department at 657-8400 ext. Renaissance class/slide show given

Judy Kennedy, chorcographer for the Shakespearean Festival in Ashland, will present a Renaissance slide show and dance class Friday Oct. 21, at Clackamas Community College

Kennedy will show slides. and talk about the costumes and movements of the 15th and 16th centuries at noon in room 101 of the Community Center. A class in movement and manners of the Renaissance will follow at 1 p.m. in room 11 of Randall Hall. Both are free

Kennedy is choreographing the movement and dances for "The Play of Herod,"a Christmas grant project that explores religious music, dance and drama from the late Middle Ages and Early Renaissance.

Music and dances from these periods will be presented in the context of the 12th century Christmas play,"The Play of Herod," to be per-formed Dec. 2 at Mt. Angel Seminary, Dec. 7 at CCC, and Dec. 10-11 at Concordia Col-

The project is partially funded by a matching grant from the Lutheran Brotherhood Branch 8039, and CCC, Concordia College and Mt. Angel Seminary. Call CCC dance instructor Jane Rickenbaugh at 657-8400 ext.295 or 529, for more information.

Inside:

- Theatre

page 3

Kathie Woods page 4

Celebrating Alcohol /Drug Awareness...

On campus child care facilities, which are scheduled to be torn down next summer, are the subject of deliberation by the

Clackamas to present 'The Addict'

by Marji T. Collins staff writer

This week CCC is acknowledging the need for help in the battle against substance abuse by celebrating National Drug and Alcohol Awareness Week. Many activities are planned in hopes that awareness will be that first important step toward prevention.

Clackamas Board of Education.

Today at noon in the Community Center a play by Jerome McDonough called "The Addict," dealing with the effects of drugs, will be performed by the Franklin High School Theatre. Following the play a reception will for students and faculty who wish to talk to the performers.

Also in the Fireside Lounge today, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., various drug and alcohol selfhelp groups will have booths set up in order to answer questions and offer brochures dealing with substance abuse

Debbie Baker, director of student activites, said that besides the scheduled activities for this week, individual students have set up organizations which meet periodically all year long.

One of these groups is Alcoholics Anonymous who hold be held in the Fireside Lounge meetings Mondays and Fridays at 1 p.m. in Pauling 164. Another organization is the Drug and Alcohol Awareness Club. For meeting time and place contact the Student Activities Office in the Community Center. Both clubs are student run, and those interested are encouraged to at-

If you have a question about drug or alcohol abuse but don't want to seek information publically, CCC provides confidential counseling on Tuesdays from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. with Mary Fitzgerald from the Clackamas County Mental Health organization.

of CCC. The amount of support

I have received from the staff has time drafting teacher at Clackamas. He teaches students draft-

Michael Jones is a new full been amazing," she said.

Appointments are necesary and can be made by calling Susie at Extention 250. Confidentiality will be maintained and your name need not be given when making an appointment.

The Alcohol and Other Drug Compliance Committee was formed this year because of the need for alcohol and drug awareness. This organization is composed of faculty and students who discuss educational ideas and policy making for drug and alcohol related matters. If anyone is interested in joining this group contact Debbie Baker in the Student Activities Office.

Hartsock, Seamen, Jones join CCC staff

by Laurie Washburn Staff Writer

Donald Hartsock is a new full time adult basic education and G.E.D. instructor here at CCC. Last year Hartsock worked part time here in the English Department. Before he worked at CCC, he was employed at Timber Lake Job Corps in Estacada.

"I felt very welcomed to CCC. It is the most open organization I know," Hartsock said.

Lynn Seamen is a new full time teacher at CCC. She works in the office specialist training program, which is offered by the office administration department. The program allows qualifying students with low incomes 5 months of schooling to be employable. Instead of taking ig, computer, and accounting classes for a full year. Students can be ready to start a job after only 5 months.

Lynn teaches the classes at ing at CCC, she taught for 7 years at Portland Community College. Prior to teaching at PCC, she taught for 10 years at Aloha High

"I am very happy to be a part

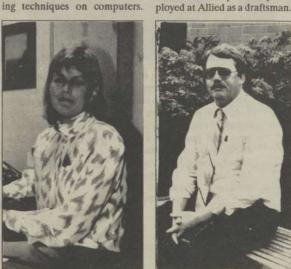

Harmony Facility. Before teach-

Donald Hartsock

Lvnn Seamen

Jones started teaching at the college a year ago as a part time When a position for full time opened, Jones jumped at the chance. He was previously em-

Michael Jones

Colors by Munsell Color Services Lab