

Remember those good old days when you would get a new outfit just especially for the first day of school each year?

Well, Cougar Print photographers went out on campus armed with their cameras one warm sunny day this week and took some candid shots of some of the "new outfits" people have been wearing to CCC.

Now, would you say CCC students are "funky" dressers?

