ASG ousts senator, approves budget

Mike McCarthy
Assistant to ASG President

A recent board meeting, new student senators, and the new student activities budget were some topics discussed during last week's Associated Student Government meeting.

ASG also decided, by secret ballot, to oust senator Lea Ranck. Ranck's name was taken off the list of senators being replaced during the old business phase of the meeting, but Senator Kitty Selman asked that ASG reconsider the motion.

Tom Blethen moved that student government table the motion but his motion was defeated. The secret vote was then taken on the main motion and the earlier decision to keep her as a senator was overturned.

At its last meeting, the school board authorized handicapped students and the administration to compile a list of long and short-term plans concerning campus improvement for handicapped students. The project has been allotted $10,000. The board also hired a new negotiator for collective bargaining.

In other action, five vacant student government positions were filled. The new senators are: Jerry Griffin, Linda Pointer, Vern Fuller, Ron Kunkel, and Jerry Bellavita. Bellavita recently stepped down from his position as assistant to the president. His replacement, Mike McCarthy, was nominated by Michael Ayers and approved unanimously by the ASG members.

Jim Roberts, director of student activities, explained the new $64,000 student activities budget to the senate and answered any questions they had. The senate approved that budget and the next step will be consideration by a student body services committee. If accepted the budget will be reviewed by the president. Final ratification will then be determined by the board.

'Quiet room' dedicated to first CCC custodian

A room in the Community Center is being redesigned especially for those students who feel a need for peace and quiet.

Students will have the opportunity to get away from people, noise, be alone for awhile, or maybe say a prayer, simply by stepping out of the humdrum of it all into the "quiet room" -- formerly CC116, a meeting room located near the Veterans Outreach Center.

The "quiet room" is dedicated to Harold Daniels, the first custodian and second classified staff member hired at Clackamas Community College in June 1967.

In 1972, following Daniels' death, his wife, Harriet Daniels, recommended that a "quiet room" be established in memory of her husband.

Approximately $500 was donated to this cause by Mrs. Daniels, her family, and CCC staff members.

The "quiet room" was originally located in a small secluded area behind the Community Education office adjacent to the Fireside Lounge.

The new room will be dedicated to Daniels soon after its completion, which is expected to occur by the end of this month, said Jim Roberts, director of student activities.

Monday Club guidelines drawn

The lines of communication at Clackamas Community College usually leave something to be desired, but representatives of the Faculty Senate made their views clear at an informal meeting held Tuesday, Jan. 11, to discuss the future of the First Monday Club.

The First Monday Club is designed to offer an open and free exchange of ideas about problems or concerns that arise on campus. The Faculty Senate, student government, classified staff and the President's Council all have representatives at the meetings.

After the second meeting of the club was held last term, the faculty voted unanimously to boycott future First Monday Club meetings on the grounds that, in their opinion, the spirit of open communication was no longer being encouraged.

The Faculty Senate sent a letter to the President's Council stating that the reasons for their withdrawal were the limited number of faculty senators allowed to participate, the formal structure of the group and the restriction of discussion topics.

This letter prompted the meeting on Jan. 11 to discuss resolutions to the Faculty Senate's beefs.

Dollie Ammons, president of the Faculty Senate, said she was quite pleased with the results of the meeting. The agenda will now provide time for "spur of the moment" topics in which anyone may participate.

The next First Monday Club meeting will be held on Monday, Feb. 7 at 3:30 p.m. in the small dining room in the Community Center.

Bestir yourselves, O people, in anticipation of the days of divine justice, for the promised hour is now come. Beware lest ye fail to apprehend its import and be accounted among the erring Baha'ullah.
