Foundation awards

Eleven high school students received full-year scholarships to Clackamas Community College from the CCC Foundation at an awards banquet held at CCC on Wednesday evening.

The eleven students were Tim Dietz, Canby, Janelle Hoaglan, Clackamas, Bob Axmaker, Colton, Debra Copher, Estacada, Cherie Beals, Gladstone, Julie Zornado, La Salle, Karen J. Lacy, Milwaukie, Lynda Evans, Molalla, Brian Hansen, Oregon City, Christine Rhodes, Rex Putnam and Michele Howell, West Linn.

New ASG officers

Last week's ASG meeting was the first session for the new officers and for once it seems that ASG has filled its senate vacancies.

The four openings were filled by Marsha Marzano, Lynn Toland, Gaylee Yoshido and Charlie Bennett.

Bennett, former ASG president, remains with the group as a senator. His successor, Mike McCarty, was sworn in as president by Bennett last week.

In other business, Bennett asked for $100 to be used in advertising the upcoming school budget election.

ASG also allocated $187 for the Clackamas Community College girl's softball club. The money will be used for equipment transportation, food expenses, and tournament entry fees.

Phi Beta Lambda, the campus business club, asked ASG to give them $1,406 to help cover the cost of attending a national leadership conference in Denver, Col. The motion was defeated nine to four as ASG felt the amount was too high.

Crime report

A student had her tennis racket and personal clothing valued at a total of $144 stolen from her locker in the girls locker room in Randall Hall on May 10, according to Stan Johnson, head of campus security.

A wallet containing $4 and personal papers was stolen from a secretary in McLoughlin Hall between 1 and 2 p.m. May 9.

A total of 24 tickets were passed out this week. 10 were for parking in the handicapped area, 12 were for parking in the various loading zones and two were for parking in unauthorized areas.

PSU catalogue

Portland State University's Summer Session catalog which describes more than 600 one-week to 10-week courses is now available.

Many one-week, two-week and evening courses are offered during the summer to make it easier for students to plan courses around their other summer activities.

Catalogs may be picked up at the Summer Session Office (room 131 Neuberger Hall), the Registration and Records window in Neuberger Hall lobby (724 SW Harrison), or the Information Center in Smith Memorial Center (1825 SW Broadway).

Requests for mailing may be made by calling the Summer Session Office (229-4081).

Refugee job help

Indo Chinese refugees in Clackamas County will be able to explore ways to find employment or better employment when Mike Walker, Portland Community College Indo Chinese job developer speaks Wednesday, May 11, at 7 p.m.

Walker will talk to Clackamas County refugees at Clackamas Community College in Trailer E-1.

The program is open to refugees enrolled in Clackamas Community College's English as a second language program, to other refugees and to volunteers who are presently working with Indo Chinese refugees or who would like to volunteer to work with refugees.

Information about the program is available from Elizabeth Bentley or Marian Roddy on Monday or Wednesday evenings at 656-2631. Interested volunteers may also call the same number for further information.

Grad speakers

Clackamas Community College will hold its 1977 commencement exercises on Friday, June 10, at Randall Gymnasium on the college campus at 7 p.m.

Board Chairperson Corinne Jones will present the certificates to the graduates. There will be a reception in the Clackamas Community College Community Center Building following the graduation ceremonies. The music department will perform at the reception.

Scholarships given

The CCC Foundation scholarship funds are obtained through membership donations and fund-raising projects and a student is selected from each high school in Clackamas County.

Mary Sharp, president of the foundation, said the Foundation meets each month at CCC and anyone who would like to be involved is welcome. For information can be obtained by contacting Mary Sharp at 829-2375.

Metrics workshop

"Metrics Made Easy" is the topic of a workshop to be conducted at Clackamas Community College Thursday, May 11, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The program will be held in the college's Community Center Building, room 101 and is open free to the public, students and staff.

Information about the program is available from the college by calling 2631, extension 347 or 388.

Board meeting

Clackamas Community College voters to go to the polls Tuesday, May 10, to approve an operating levy for 1977. Plans for the election were presented to the board of education at its May 11 meeting (May 11).

Voters will be asked to approve a $1 million levy. Until voters approve operating funds for the college, the college will have zero dollars of local support. The college has no tax base.

In other business before the board, approval was given to employ the architectural firm of Reddaway-Roma for $32,700 to prepare detailed plans for an addition to Barlow Hall and for a science building which may be funded by the state.

Beginning June 13, the college will have a four-day summer work week as part of an energy conservation measure. It is estimated that 12 per cent energy savings will result from the shorter week. Other facilities will remain available to the public.

Summer hours will be 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

In other action the board approved student rights, freedoms and responsibilities document, a policy relative to pets on campus and an application to the state for Adult Education Monies from the state.
