

One of the few logging outfits still using the wooden spar tree is the B & E Logging Company. Last week they raised their last wooded spar (shown lying on the ground at right). Their next spar will be a metal tower. It takes 2 cats, a loader, yarder, the old spar tree 1000' away and lots of manpower to erect the tree.

Timber industry provides jobs, sets economic base

John "Swampman" Eberhard, second rigger, Gary "Rumpler" Doering, rigging slinger and Steve "Stoner" Stone, chaser, keep watch in all directions. Miles and miles of this heavy cable is needed to secure a wooden spar.
