

Gary McLean, Eagle Creek Fish Hatchery employee, puts live salmon into a large box filled with water to complete a calming process.

'Doctoring' fish at the Eagle Creek hatchery

Photos by Randy Sullivan

One of McLean's duties is to weigh and measure each individual salmon.

Gary Oldenburg, another Eagle Creek Fish Hatchery employee, is pictured here preparing an antibiotic shot for the fish. The antibiotic shot insures that the fish will last through the summer season.

In the end, the fish gets the shot.

