Tony Franklin, ASG president elect had the support of students May 9, 10, and 11 when he received 197 votes for president, 59 more than his opponent, Ken Ingram.

Franklin, who was "elated" about his victory, said that the students were behind him when he was running for president, now he wants to keep them involved.

"Now that the students have elected me to represent them," Franklin commented, "I want and need their input. Their support got me into office. I will need it to do the job in office they want me to do."

Although Franklin doesn't have experience in student government, he is confident about the job he will do as next year's ASG president because of his "life experience." He will also receive "extensive training," he said.

Upon Franklin's inauguration, he will be scheduled to attend a CCOSAC conference held for college student body presidents.

Franklin said he knows the student activities "advisors," Debbie Baker and Paul Kylo, and feels that will help him get a start in his new role. He also plans to make an appointment with John Keyser so he can introduce himself.

Franklin, when referring to his style in his attire, stated that he "takes it with a really open mind, and he hopes other people will too."

"I could cut off my hair and my beard and take my glasses and hat off," Franklin said, "but I feel that it represents freedom of expression. I am proud to be different."

One of the main reasons, Franklin feels, that he won this election was because of his "broad mindedness." "I want the suggestions of all students," Franklin commented, "be it a medical student, a science major or someone studying general ed., I will take suggestions from everybody. I'm here to represent all students."

Franklin said that he had not heard of any violations that had occurred during elections and he thought that everything ran smoothly. "If there were any violations, I didn't make them intentionally," Franklin concluded.

Franklin, Luehring capture positions

by Margy Lynch News Editor

Many people were surprised, many excited, and many upset as results of the ASG elections circulated the campus Monday.

Tony Franklin has been elected ASG president and Andreas Luehring ASG vice president.

In the presidential race, Franklin received 197 votes, while Ken Ingram, this year's ASG president, received 138. Luehring got 188 votes in the vice presidential race and Jim Olson, currently ASG senator, received 126 votes.

"I want to make it one of the most outstanding years on record. I want people to say 'hey, I went to Clackamas that year,'" said Franklin, ASG president-elect.

Franklin said that he had "a lot" of the students' support. Please turn to page 3

Luehring elected ASG vice president

Newly elected ASG Vice President Andreas Luehring seemed very satisfied with the election results when contacted Friday.

"I'm happy about it and I think we've run a good campaign," said Luehring. "I couldn't have done it all by myself. I would like to thank everyone who voted, even if they didn't vote for me, and who helped me with my campaign."

Unique to Luehring's campaign was the use of suggestion boxes. He hoped students would share their concerns of different issues that should be dealt with by student government.

According to Luehring, the suggestion boxes were successful and gave him many ideas he hopes to bring to the attention of next year's ASG.

"I hope that I will always have such a good response from students," said Luehring. "I would like to bring these issues up in the ASG forums and work with them."

Among the issues mentioned were more parking for the handicapped, longer library hours, the discontinuation of environmentally unsound material by the campus cafeteria, and extending the hours of the computer lab to include weekends.

Luehring plans to contact the current ASG administration and discuss the issues they have worked on this year so that any unfinished business can be dealt with by the incoming officers.

"ASG performs as a team, and only a good group can perform well," said Luehring. "We have to keep on track."

Luehring hopes to establish a good working relationship with Tony Franklin, the ASG president-elect, and says he hopes that a lot of new people come out for the three appointed positions and senator positions next fall.

Andreas Luehring was elected vice president by over 60 votes.
