

Only one more column about the glorious sport of hockey

by Lane Scheideman

Everyone can now breathe a sigh of relief. This will be the last column where the word "hockey" will be mentioned. This will end an era of cultural diversity for the students of CCC.

No longer will the terms icing, penalty box, or Nordique grace the pages of this illustrious paper.

Mario Lemieux, Steve Yzerman, Zarley Zalapski, Andy Moog and any other hockey player with a difficult name to pronounce will not be seen in print in The Print.

Curious readers will not be seen asking their friends where in Kansas, Toronto really is and the inevitable discussions about the term Canuck will not occur.

Faculty, students, and staff members will now only be able to get information about Cam Neely, Bill Ranford, and Steve Konowalchuk through ESPN and some national newspapers.

Not to sound like a commercial but some of the best hockey in the world will be played this Fall in the Memorial Coliseum by the Portland Winter Hawks.

If you want to see rivalry at its finest forget the Bulls and Pistons, don't even think about the Cowboys and Redskins, Go to a Saturday night game between the Winter Hawks and the Seattle Thunderbirds. (Saturdays are best because those are the nights that the Seattleites escape from their cages and travel to Portland and make fools of themselves.)

For those who can't get into watching the sport, they should try playing. You don't necessarily have to know how to skate, because you can find a group of people and play street hockey.

You can get all the equipment you need at G.I. Joes. A hockey stick, a hockey ball (use a ball because pucks are ineffective on pavement), and shin-pads (these are a must if you are playing for the first time).

The hardest part is convincing someone to play in goal. It is probably the easiest position, if you're playing with a group of people who are trying it for the first time. They won't ever get any hard shots off and you'll look like you know what you're doing.

Anyway back to what I was originally trying to say.

I was planning on saying goodbye to the newspaper and everyone I've worked with in these three years. I will definitely miss the school and all the people I've met.

A special thanks to all the coaches and players for your patience with me and my writers. Without you we would only have stats.

CCC co-ed volleyball team wins two championships in three days

The Community College Intramural Co-ed Volleyball Tournament was won last Saturday by the team representing CCC.

The tournament was held in the courtyard on campus and was to include teams from Clackamas, Portland CC and Mt. Hood CC.

Mt. Hood defaulted out of the tournament and left Clackamas to play Portland for the championship.

The tournament began Friday and was played in a best three-out-of-five format.

The participants for Clackamas' team were Rudy Rana, Deanna Arreola, Jeff Contreras, Crystina Brazie, Curtis Arrayan, and Eddie Murphy.

Friday's series was a close battle and saw the team from PCC win the fifth game to take the series.

The two teams decided that since the series was so close that another best-three-of-five series should be played Saturday and the first series should not count in the standings.

This second series would be for the championship.

Game one was won by the team from PCC by the score of 15-10.

"They (PCC) were down 10 to 1 and came back to win it," said Murphy.

The next three games were close battles, but they were all won by CCC.

CCC was awarded trophies and T-shirts for winning the championship.

The team from CCC had a 5-0 record before the championships.

"We had five wins and didn't even have to play," said Murphy, concerning the defaults by their opponents.

The team from Clackamas also participated in the ASG Spring

Volleyball Tournament held on campus for Clackamas students under the team name, Leather and Lace Turbo Team.

The tourney began last Wednesday and finished up Monday with the team Six Feet and Under losing to the Leather and Lace Turbo Team.

During the tournament the Leather and Lace Turbo team had two replacements for Brazie. Jennifer Fire and Amy Hines assisted their team to the championship.

Nine softballers named to League All-Star teams

The Clackamas Community College softball team held its Awards Social to commemorate the team's championship season.

The team had decided that no one player should win the Most Valuable Player Award, so the whole team shared that honor.

The Outstanding Offensive Player award was shared by Launa Meck and Corie Peck.

Jenny Topham received the award for Outstanding Defense, while Julie Stickel took home the award for being the Most Inspirational Player.

Kenna Skinner was given the award for the Most Improved Player and Kristin Freitas received the Scholar Athlete Award.

The Clackamas team also took a multitude of league awards including Peck being named MVP and Paul Fiskum being named Coach of the Year for the Southern Region.

Julie Braman, Meck, Topham, Peck, Lisa DeMers, Jenny Hefflinger, and Kim Holum were named as Southern Region First Team All-Stars.

Holly Rahn and Kristin Freitas received Second Team All-Star selections.
