

Wednesday, January 17, 1996

Clackamas Community College

AT A GLANCE

Compiled by Cori Kargel
Business Manager

Attend the next College Conversation and find out what's going on at CCC. The event, sponsored by ASG and Instructional Services, offers students, staff and faculty the opportunity to attend an informal conversation with President John Keyser and other administrators. Free pizza and drinks will be provided. Join in the conversation, tomorrow, at 12:30 p.m., in CC127.

Attention all Native American students! Come to the next Native American Students Club meeting Jan. 18, from 4:30 to 6 p.m., in the Skylight Dining Room in the Community Center. For more information, call Advisor Sylvia Ollgaard at 632-4619 or Vice-Pres. Cori Kargel at ext. 2578.

Interested in helping your community? Sign up today in CC140 for the Winter Term Community Energy Project. The project will be Feb. 17. For more information, see Brinda Fearn in CC140 or call her at ext. 2247.

The CCC Community Recreation Department is now sponsoring its annual Polar Bear 5000-meter Fun Walk/Run around the CCC campus. The course will be on pavement. Runners will compete in men's and women's divisions for the following age groups: Elementary, Junior High, High School, 19-29, 30-39, 40-49, and 50 & over. The run will be Jan. 21, starting at 11:30 a.m. Pre-register no later than tomorrow. Cost is $5, or $15 with a race t-shirt. For more information, call ext. 2211.

The Portland Women's Crisis Line needs women to commit to being volunteer crisis intervention counselors. Be a part of an organization that actively works to end violence against women and children. Practicum credit is available for student volunteers. For more information or an application, call 232-9545.

Annie Callan, author of "The Back Door," will read from her works at noon on Wednesday, Jan. 24 in the Gregory Forum. Her visit is sponsored by the English Department. Callan covers many themes, including relationships and being Irish.

Petitions for graduation are now being accepted. The graduation ceremony will be June 7. For more information, see the Registrar's office or the Help Center.

Come join Country Line Dancing this Monday night at 6:30 p.m. in the Gregory Forum. The event is sponsored by Focus on Women and is open to the public. Cost is $3 at the door.

The John Inskeep Environmental Learning Center has dropped its $3 per car surcharge for recycling services. The ELC invites the public to drop off recyclable materials free. For more information, call ext. 2358.

Chrysalis, the CCC women's writing group, is now meeting. Join in the meetings every Weds., from noon to 1 p.m., in B112. For more information, call Kate Gray at ext. 2371.

Several scholarships are still available for 1995-96. Stop by the Financial Aid office and check them out.

College students across the U.S. are now eligible for the Delta Air Lines "Extra Credit" fares, which are as low as $138 round trip. Fares are valid between Jan. 4 and March 4 of this year. Tickets are non-refundable and must be purchased at least seven days before departure. For more information, call (404) 715-2533 or your travel agent.

Pulitzer Prize winner visits Clackamas

Pamela Sirianni
News Editor

Edward Albee, a three-time Pulitzer Prize winning playwright, is coming to CCC to give a lecture titled "The Playwright vs. The Theater" and to conduct two workshops.

Albee is considered by critics to be "America's most important dramatist still writing," according to biographical information received by the college. His award-winning plays are continually produced in theaters throughout the world. He is also gaining praise for his performances as a lecturer.

Plays such as Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? and The Zoo Story have gained Albee much praise and recognition. Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? is perhaps Albee's most recognized work. It is also one of the most frequently performed plays created by an American playwright in recent years.

In 1966, Albee won his first Pulitzer Prize for A Delicate Balance. Seascape won him a second Pulitzer in 1975 and in 1994 he won a third for Three Tall Women.

"It is practically unheard of for someone to win three Pulitzer Prizes," said Diane Averill, an English instructor at CCC.

Averill also added that this will be a great opportunity for students to hear someone of Albee's stature.

"It will be interesting for our students who are theater majors, or actors and actresses, to be exposed to what he has to say and for him to shed some light on the theater," said Averill. "The students can get a chance to see a very significant live playwright."

A critique of two student-submitted works will be given by Albee in the "Creative Writing" workshop from 11 to 12:30 p.m. on Feb. 9.

If you are interested in attending, 50 tickets will be available at the end of January from Diane Averill in Streeter 125. The workshop is suggested for students who have a serious interest in creative writing and in the theater.

The "Acting and Directing" workshop will be held at 1:30 p.m. on Feb. 9. This workshop is by invitation only, and it is directed towards Clackamas theater students who will be presenting Albee's Lady from Dubuque, The Sandbox and The Zoo Story later this term.

Albee will be giving the "The Playwright vs. The Theater" lecture at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 9. in the Gregory Forum.

Tickets are available at the

photo provided by Dan McCue

Three-time Pulitzer Prize winning playwright Edward Albee will visit Clackamas on February 9.

CCC Bookstore. The cost of tickets is $4 for CCC students, $8 for CCC staff, seniors and other students (with student body card) and $16 for the general public.

Albee's visit to Clackamas is sponsored by Clackamas Community College's Cultural Arts Committee. This committee held a fund-raiser this summer titled "the pARTY." The total cost for bringing Albee to Clackamas was paid for by this group.

Jeff Knorr, English instructor at CCC, agrees with Averill in saying that Albee's lecture will be a beneficial opportunity for Clackamas students.

"It's not an everyday opportunity that we get to see somebody with Albee's expertise and knowledge of the theater," said Knorr. "He will have some wonderfully profound and provocative insights about the theater and how life transforms itself onto the stage."

Albee has won many awards for his talent as a playwright, but he is also an ordinary person just like anyone else.

"The nice thing about seeing any writer is to realize that they are average people; that they have a life just like us. They go to the grocery store to buy oranges and things for dinner," added Knorr. "They have a life and that's where their work comes from."

Promised Net access arrives at Clackamas

Brad Zimmerman
Assistant Feature Editor

Internet access has finally arrived for students at Clackamas. Students now have access to the World Wide Web and have full e-mail (Electronic Mail) capabilities.

Chief Information Officer Paul Rothi said that several professors would like to integrate the Internet into lectures.

At this time, however, CCC does not have the proper amount of resources to support such heavy use of the Internet. Besides, Internet access (at this time) is limited to the Computer Lab in Streeter Hall, Student Publications in Barlow Hall and individual faculty and staff.

The World Wide Web, or "web" as it is commonly called, can be used by students to research nearly any topic imaginable.

Everything from information on every world in the country (courtesy of the CIA's public-access database), to information on Key Lime Pie.

Students also have full access to e-mail. This means students not only can communicate between others on campus, but they now have the ability to send messages worldwide. However, stu-

See INTERNET on page 3

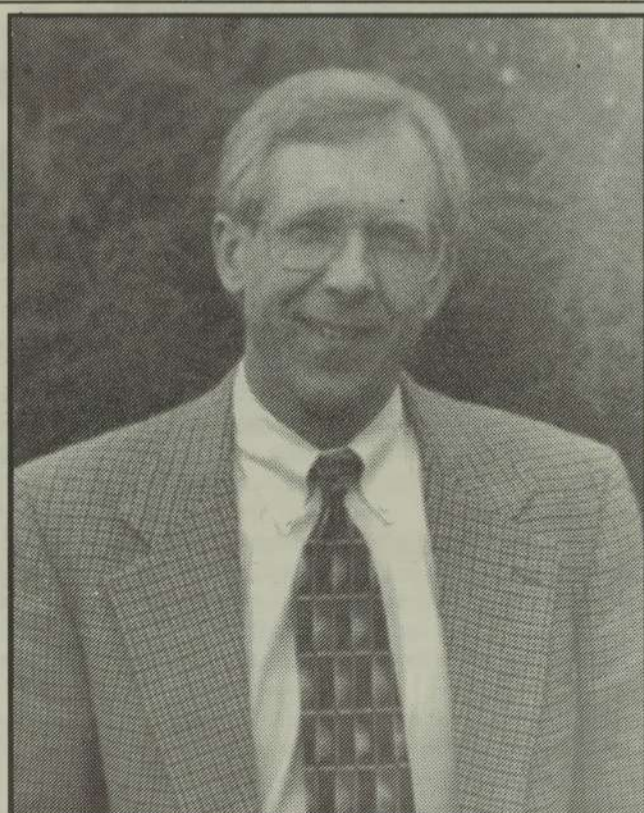

Photo by Lora Wahgren

Ask the President

Students, staff and faculty are invited to attend an informal conversation with President John Keyser. Free pizza and drinks will be provided. The conversation will be held in Community Center 127 between 12:30 and 1:30 tomorrow.

Page 5

New Year's Resolutions