County needs new officials

Brendon Neal
Opinion Editor

The upcoming May 21 election will include two county commissioner positions. We have an opportunity to choose a new County Commissioner and District Attorney.

Mark E. Luedtke is the best candidate for #3. Luedtke is running against incumbent Democrat Ed Lindquist and Republicans Mac Sumner and Jerry Grisham.

Clackamas needs someone who isn't a long-time politician. Luedtke is a retired logger who has not held any political position, but has the experience of attending most of the weekly County Commissioner meetings over the last two years. This creates a balance that I find very important. While he hasn't been corrupted by power, he has seen how politics work from the viewpoint of an average Oregonian.

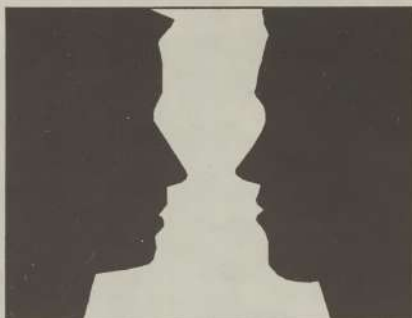

His main objective is to lower local taxes and control County spending. In the Oregon Spectator he is quoted as saying "These people (current County Commissioners) never saw a tax that they didn't like." I feel that we need to balance the budget and I think that Luedtke can get us started on that track.

In the District Attorney election we have a chance to choose a candidate who will crack down on crime in Clackamas County. Terry Gustafson seems to be voter's best bet. Gustafson is running against current District Attorney John S. Foote.

She has worked as Clackamas County deputy and se-

Her record includes having gotten "guilty as charged" verdicts on 97% of her cases while a prosecuting attorney. Her record speaks about, what she feels is important. In the voter's pamphlet Foote and Gustafson are side-by-side and have the same space. While Gustafson talks about her experience, Foote goes on and on about endorsements. While the endorsements show what other politicians think, I want to know what a candidate has actually done and Gustafson is willing to let her past speak for her.

This month we have a chance to take control of our county by electing politicians who will lower the deficit and reduce crime. If Luedtke and Gustafson win, I feel they will at least make the first real steps toward these goals.
