

Students to Perform One-Act Plays

Theater students at Clackamas Community College will perform several one-act plays in CCC's McLoughlin Hall Theatre on May 28, 29, 30.

"Naomi in the Living Room," by Christopher Durang, is a story about the ultimate in lousy relationship communication. This play will be directed by Jim Nicodemus (Oregon City), and stars Julie Black (Vancouver, Wash.), Ed Asquith (Portland) and Danielle Turley (Milwaukie).

"Variations on the Death of Trotsky" is made up of eight short hypotheses on the death of political theorist Leon Trotsky. (It's comical. Really.) The play will be directed by Karen Champ (Canby), and will star Franklin Kline (Oregon City), Black and Larry VanZadt (Aloha).

"Infancy," by Thornton

Wilder, features BIG babies commenting on the way of the world. This play will feature Mike Gerber (Milwaukie), Erin Covington (Clackamas), Matt Bielenberg (Scotts Mills), Black and Nicodemus.

"Sex, Drugs, Rock & Roll," by Eric Bogdosian, includes short monologues dealing with the title issues. Directed by Jim Miller (Milwaukie), the cast of this play includes Matt Russell (Oregon City), Nicodemus, Aaron Pfenning (Canby), Champ, Bielenberg, Black, Jason Norton (Oregon City), Mike Gerber (Milwaukie) and Kline.

"Remedial English," by Evan Smith, features bookish Vincent, who is a tutor for dazzling, doltish Rob at Cabrini Catholic Academy. The play is a wryly humorous treatment of young angst. Directed by Matt Russell (Oregon City), the cast of this play features Dan Cook (Portland), Champ, VanZandt, Norton, Siegfried Seeliger (Milwaukie) and Asquith.

The series of plays will be performed starting at 12:30 p.m. on May 28, at noon on May 29 and at 12:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. on May 30. Admission is free.
