

Inside

Clackamas bats heat it up against South Puget Sound on Thursday beating SPS CC 11-1. More on page 7.

Diane Frank is Clackamas' poet-in-residence. She recently hosted a workshop, poetry reading and a discussion on the cross-fertilization of the arts. More on page 6

Sports Scores

Softball
Clackamas beat Green River	10-1
Quick Stats:	Don Davis 1-2, 2 RBI, 2 runs WP-Kelly Comstock

Baseball
Clackamas beat Linn-Benton	13-7
Quick Stats:	Ryan Suyama 3-3 WP-Jeff Williamson

THE CLACKAMAS PRINT

Wednesday, May 7, 1997

Clackamas Community College

Oregon City, Oregon

Volume XXX, Issue 24

International Week gives glimpse at world

International week started Monday and will continue through to tomorrow, when "The Gate of Heavenly Peace" will be showing in Gregory Forum from 7 to 10:30 p.m. International week is designed to give students and staff a glimpse at other cultures and countries.

Visit Asia and Europe

10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.
Gregory Forum

10:30 a.m. Tai-Chi Demonstration

The Clackamas Tai-Chi class will demonstrate this ancient Chinese exercise regime.

11 a.m. French Songs & Poetry

Sur le Pont D'Avignon (On the Bridge of Avignon).

La Marseillaise (French National Anthem).

C'est un Petit Monde Apres Tout (It's a Small World) by Tom Farnsworth, Daisy Hart, Melva Drury and Laurel Hoyt. Costumes by Sarah Bradley.

Poems in Drama

DeJeuner du Matin (Anca Micarescou and Jaimy Wacker).

Pour Toi Mon Amour (Kate Sutton and Gary Smith).

Poetry Reading

Luis Fuste from Normandy Nursery Rhymes

Acted out and set to music.

Performed by Stephanie Devogele, Lisa Ford and Sarah Bradley.

12 p.m. German Songs & Various Activities

Clackamas and area high schools German students will perform several songs, dance and drama.

1 p.m. Japanese Songs & Dance

Students from Richmond School's Japanese Magnet Program will sing and dance under the direction of Deana Balzer.

1:30 p.m. Asian Musical Instruments

Dr. John Richards of Lake Oswego will show, discuss and play some Asian musical instruments from his collection. Call ext. 2310 for more information.

KARIN REDSTON / Clackamas Print

Cinco de Mayo kicked off International Week on Monday. The event is a celebration designed to give students a chance to experience the music, dances, food and traditional dress of other cultures and countries.

The Print receives four awards at 'Collegiate Day'

LANEY FOUSE
Editor-in-Chief

The Clackamas Print won four awards in sports writing and photography at the Oregon Newspaper Publishers Association "Collegiate Day" last Friday.

The ONPA played host to 17 Oregon community colleges and universities at the annual event.

Joel Coreson, The Print's photo editor, won first place in the spot news category with his photo of Senate candidate Gordon Smith visiting Clackamas. Coreson also won a second place for feature photography with his photo of Forensics Advisor Kelly Brennan.

Brendon Neal, The Print's sports editor, won two second places in sports writing and photography.

The conference brings together college journalists who share a passion for writing, editing, photographing and designing their school newspaper. Students attended from as far away as Coos Bay, Ashland and LaGrande.

This year's event, held at The Sweetbrier Inn in Tualatin, was opened by ONPA's Executive Director, LeRoy Yorgason.

This year's newspaper careers panel included Angela Pancrazio, photographer, The Oregonian, Portland; Brad Cain, writer, The Associated Press, Salem; Judie Weissert, retail ad manager, The Albany Democrat-Herald; and Angela Stephens, special sections editor, Statesman Journal, Salem. Each offered a narrative of their career and answered questions from the audience.

Following a short break, Jacqui Banaszynski, senior enterprise editor for The Oregonian gave the crowd what can only be described as a "dynamite seminar" on newswriting. The Pulitzer Prize winning author repeatedly instructed journalists to "show the readers the story. Don't tell it to them."

Following a mid-morning break, a presentation was made by the photo ethics panel. The panel consisted of Tim Gleason, associate dean of the School of Journalism and Communication, University of Oregon and Tony Overman, chief photographer, Corvallis Gazette-Times. They focused on journalists maintaining their credibility despite the ability to digitally manipulate photos.

"A journalist without credibility has no value," said Gleason.

Nationally-syndicated cartoonist Jan Eliot, the creator of "Stone Soup," served as this year's luncheon speaker. A former, single parent with two daughters, Eliot, who resides in Eugene, urged the crowd to follow their dreams and hang on to the hope they will come true.

KARIN REDSTON / Clackamas Print

(From left) Vice president candidate Erica Strowbridge, vice presidential candidate Josh Buegman, presidential candidate Jacob Boenisch and presidential candidate Tiffany Fine.

Cast your vote in ASG elections

Associated Student Government general elections will be today and tomorrow. The following voting locations (see graphic) are available to students who have a Clackamas student ID or driver's license and are registered for spring term.

Jacob Boenisch and Tiffany Fine are running for the presidential position. Josh Boenisch and Erica Strowbridge are running for the vice president position. Election results will be announced Friday.

All of the candidates can be contacted through ASG at extension 2247. The ASG office is in Community Center, room 140. Candidates will also be available to comment on issues at various voting areas.

Student Government Voting Locations

Community Center from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Pauling Center from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Clairmont Hall 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

McLoughlin Hall 5:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Pauling Center from 5:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The Print's ONPA awards

- 1st place in Spot News Photography, Joel Coreson
- 2nd place in Feature Photography, Joel Coreson
- 2nd place in Sports Photography, Brendon Neal
- 2nd place in Sports story, Brendon Neal