

Inside

ASG President Mike Caudle: a year in review.
Read about it on page 5.

Life and Career Options has a team of 21 people that will compete in the Rose Festival Dragon boat races. Read about it on page 4

Sports Scores

Baseball
Clackamas lost to Mt Hood	10-9
Quick Stats:	Taylor 3-4, 3 RBI's, 2 HR's Suyama 3-5, 2 RBI's

Baseball
Clackamas beat SWOCC	13-4
Quick Stats:	Rooper 3-4, 3 RBI's, 3 R Edwards 2-3, 3 RBI's

THE CLACKAMAS PRINT

Wednesday, May 21, 1997

Clackamas Community College

Oregon City, Oregon

Volume XXX, Issue 26

Cougars capture 3rd straight title

BRENDON NEAL / Clackamas Print

(Top row from left) Dawn Davis, Joell Whitton, Robin Viol, Kriss Demos, Robin Lisak, Laurie Nielsen, Megan Thompson, Nichole Lindgren, Jody Koehler, Jackie Obrist. (Bottom row from left) Daniell Soldani, Stacy Peacock, Shawna Birnel, Lisa Hosford, Kelly Comstock

knocked in Davis and Koehler with a triple in the fifth, giving the Cougars the final margin of victory.

Clackamas managed only seven hits but gave up four as they beat Southwestern Oregon Community College 1-0 Friday afternoon. Jackie Obrist had the only run of the game.

"She faked to go home, and the pitcher threw over the catcher's head," said Fiskum. "You can't really hit the ball better than that. In many ways, they are lucky we didn't have more runs."

Both teams have struggled to score against each other this year.

"There is something about Southwest Oregon this year. For some reason, we can't hit the ball in the gaps. We had five line drives, screamers, that went right at people. One of them we hit into a double [out] play. It just as easily could have been two RBIs," said Fiskum. "We had only one strike out against a really good pitcher. That girl was the player of the year in Nevada two years ago. I don't know why we couldn't score against SWOCC this year. But I do know one thing, we know how to beat them one to nothing."

Clackamas' cause was helped by Robin Lisak's pitching. Lisak held SWOCC to only four base hits, all singles. Lisak pitched the final three games of the tournament, giving up only 22 singles and one double in 21 innings.

"When you have Lisak on the hill [pitching] one run is enough. We scored just enough to get the win. What can you say about Lisak, no runs, nine strike outs and three walks. That is why she is [Southwest division's] MVP [Most Valuable Player]," said Fiskum.

See Champions, page 7

“ They came back from behind all year and that shows heart ”
Paul Fiskum
Softball Coach

BRENDON NEAL
Sports Editor

The softball team gave up only five runs on their way to their third straight Northwest Athletic Association of Community Colleges' championship last Friday at Irv Lind Stadium in Portland.

Clackamas finished with an overall league record of 22-9.

The Cougars did not give up a run on Friday.

Clackamas opened the tournament by beating Highline 6-0. Kelley Comstock pitched the shutout. Comstock had eight strike outs and only allowed five base hits, all singles, with no errors.

"The thing that was really good in that game was the zero errors. That is how you win softball tournaments," said Head Coach Paul Fiskum.

"Getting a very, very good pitching out of Kelly Comstock in game one was really good. It's really nice to be able to say a pitcher of Comstock's caliber is your number two pitcher," said Fiskum. "She had eight strike outs in the game, which was really outstanding."

Robin Viol started the Cougar offense, scoring in the team's first at bat.

"We came out of the shoot. The first hitter of the tournament scored a run for us," said Fiskum.

Again, the Cougars showed their tendency to score in bursts. Clackamas scored five runs between the fourth and fifth.

"We came back with our bigger innings later on, like we do a lot of the times. I thought we came out in game one and won a game you're supposed to win. It's the one versus the four [ranked teams]," said Fiskum.

Jodi Koehler and Dawn Davis led the team with two runs apiece and were 3-4 at the plate combined. Kriss Demos

News in Brief

The campus honor society Phi Theta Kappa wrapped up a busy year by bringing home several honors from the Regional Conference held last weekend in Tacoma, Wash.

Each year Phi Theta Kappa sets a goal is to achieve Five-Star Status, the highest honor for a chapter. The Alpha Xi Zeta chapter was awarded the Five-Star Status certificate following a busy year of activities including service to the community, leadership opportunities, fellowship with other chapters and scholarship achievement.

Phi Theta Kappa also received the Hallmark Award for service. The Hallmark Award is based on achieving several different goals for providing service to the community.

Topping off the list of awards is a full scholarship given to the chapter so one officer may attend the Phi Theta Kappa Honors Institute. The event is scheduled in Bellingham, Wash. at the end of June.

A man was watching a woman undress for a shower by looking over the lockers last Wednesday morning in the Randall Hall womens' locker room. She looked up as she was beginning to undress, saw the man and ran for help. A chase ensued by Coach Mike Hodges, but the perpetrator got away.

According to Public Safety Chief Larry Dexheimer, the man is described as between six foot and six foot-two, medium build with short, dark hair. He was wearing a baseball cap backwards, gold wire-framed glasses, a dark blue fleece vest and faded blue jeans. He is still at large.

Chief Dexheimer noted that such incidents are few and far between. The last incident, according to Public Safety, happened two and a half years ago.

Coach Hodges noted the woman was a member of the track team.

"It puts a bad light on all males," Hodges said. "Whoever he is, he is real lucky some of her male team mates didn't catch him."

Environmental Week

A vendor selling hemp necklaces as a part of Environmental Week. Today's events include the band, See Jane Run, the Defenders of Wildlife, Birds of Prey (noon, Fireside Lounge), National Wildlife Federation and the Heel Pasta Bar.