

A man of many degrees, Steffen A. Muller has been hired as an instructor in the Computer Science Department. Muller's degrees include a bachelor's degree from Union College and a master's degree from the University of North Texas. He is also a Ph.D. candidate for Library/Information Science from the University of North Texas.

William W. Frank is also taking over as a project coordinator for Customized Training and Development Services. Frank holds a bachelor's degree from the University of California and a master's degree in psychology from Eastern Washington University.

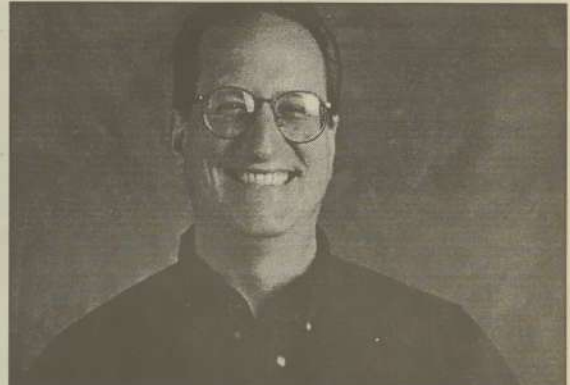

Rodger R. Rawls has been working at CCC for the past ten years as a part-time instructor, and has recently been hired as a full-time drafting technology instructor. Rawls obtained his education at from the ITT Technical Institute and received certification in Autodesk Instruction from CCC.

Gregory Hill, a math teacher from the University of Oregon and former tenured professor and administrator at the University of North Texas, has been hired as an instructor in the Mathematics Department. Hill earned a master's degree from the University of Oregon and has a Ph.D. in math.

Timothy Shea is beginning his time at Clackamas as an instructor for the Small Business Development Center. Shea's academic record includes an associate's degree from Santa Barbara City College, a bachelor's degree from PSU and an MBA from PSU.

Bradely Stiles, a former part-time instructor for Parkland College, has been hired as an instructor in the English department. A bachelor's degree from Wichita State University, a master's degree from the University of Illinois and a nearly completed Ph.D. from the University of Illinois are just some of Stiles academic accomplishments.

Sylvia J. Hearing has been hired as one of the new project coordinators for Customized Training and Development Services. Hearing, an accountant and former teacher, obtained a bachelor's degree from PSU and a master's degree in business administration from City University in Portland.

David A. Bradely has been hired as an instructor in the Automotive Department. For the past 20 years Bradely has been working in the automotive field and has owned and managed his own body shop.

A former part-time instructor and last year's interim head coach for the Clackamas track and field team, Jack K. Kegg has been hired as a full-time instructor and track coach for the Physical Education Department. Kegg has an associate's degree from Clackamas, a bachelor's degree and a master's in health from Western Oregon University.

The computer science department has found a new instructor in Donald B. Wilcox, an experienced teacher from the University of Wisconsin and OIT. Wilcox received a bachelor's degree and M.B.A. from the University of Washington and a Ph.D. in systems science from PSU.

Terry Mackey has recently been hired as a reference/collection development librarian. Mackey's degrees include a bachelor's from the University of Montana and a master's in library information science from Indiana University.

Patricia McIlveen is a new instructor for the Family and Human Services Department at Clackamas. McIlveen's credentials include a bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University, a master's degree from Florida Atlantic University and a master's degree from Florida Atlantic University, and she is currently in pursuit of a Ph.D. from PSU.

All photo's donated by Dean Walch and Toni McMichael