

Spooks, scares, things that go bump in the night

Haunted Halloween sites around Oregon

The Haunted Graveyard, presented by The Crypt

SALENA DELA CRUZ
Sports Co-Editor

IIIIHEHEHEHEH!!! Welcome to the Haunted Graveyard. Are you ready to be terrorized?

Pass through the door that reaches out to touch you.

The gatekeeper descends from his watch over the graveyard to welcome new blood.

Look behind you—No, in front of you!! I'm O.K. I can do this. Breathe.

Creceaaaaaaak. The gate opens. Travel through the darkened corners only to find Oh God NOOOOOOOOO!!!

Sit on the chair if you dare. "Oh, my gosh it's lifting me up." "Get me down!"

AAAAHHHHHH! Where'd he come from? The witchdoctor beckons—RUN! O.K. I think he's gone. Breathe. What was that? Turn, slowly. AAHH! He's still there. If I look him in the eye he won't see my fear. Quit following me! Slowly, now walk away.

Hannibal? Hannibal Lector, is that you? I'd love to join you for dinner. What? Be your dinner. Um, no thanks, I'll take a raincheck. O.K. bye talk to you later. Wait. SHHH! Someone's following us. Oh, Hannibal, hi. No, I'm tender enough. No need to poke me with a fork. Doooodooodooodooodoo!

What is that no please anything, but...CLOWNS. I hate clowns. Hehe! No! I'm not getting off your back until you walk by the clowns. Just get that clown out of my face. O.K. 1-2-3 RUUUUUUUUN! Did I mention I hate clowns, bad birthday experience?

I'm still alive. Fabulous. VRRRRROOOOOOMMM! REVVV—Or, at least I was. AAAAHHHHHH! O.K. Michael step away from the chainsaw. Hey, really I had nothing to do with Halloween H2O. Really, I'd let you live. Fake left—right. Run. Let's get out of here now. Wow! I can't believe I held my breath that long. Shish! For just $7.00 you can wish to be mildly scared to extreme lose your body fluids scared.

The Crypt presents the Haunted Graveyard at 1120 SW 160th and Baseline in Beaverton (behind Costco). It will terrify you until you run screaming for your mommy!! Just bring along a few friends; after all there has to be someone you can hold onto.

The Haunted Graveyard runs from 7:30-midnight through Oct. 31 with encore presentations Nov. 5.

Tickets can be purchased at the door or ahead of time at Ticketmasters. For more information call (503) 641-4964.

Institute of Terror
Portland Meadows
937-4413

200800
4001 S.W.
Canyon Rd.
in Portland
226-1561

Haunted Submarine
OMSI
1945 S.E. Water
in Portland
797-4000

Terror on 52nd street Carnegie Center
Haunted House
Woodstock Blvd. in Portland
771-3592

St. Stephen's
Haunted House
4235 S.E. Taylor in
Portland
235-7040

Haunted Mansion
713 Center Street in Oregon City
656-5146

Haunted Halloween
Fort Stevens Guardhouse, Astoria
861-3170

Terrorville Haunted House
30399 S Grays Hill Rd. in Colton
795-9571

Ermatiger House Ghost Tours
6th and John Adams in Oregon City
557-0991

Are you stumped on what to dress up as on October 31? Or do you want to avoid the ghouls and goblins out on the streets on Halloween? The Print staff gives their suggestions on cool costumes and flicks full o' fright.

The Blair Witch Project
Megan Oldenstadt, Managing Editor

Silence of the Lambs
Mandy Good, Staff Writer

A Christmas present

Wonder Woman

Darkwing Duck

Halloween
Timothy A. Bell, Design Editor

It
John Thorburn,
Editor-in-Chief

Frank 'n Furter

The Shining
Angie Daschel, A&E Editor

William Wallace

Halloween Pumpkin Patch

Clackamas will host a "Halloween Pumpkin Patch" this Saturday, 1-5 p.m., for kids and parents to join in pumpkin carving, face painting, coloring, balloons, and refreshments of cookies and coffee.

"Pumpkins will be priced $1 or less," said Toni McMichael, the event's coordinator "Just come out and have some fun," she invited.

The Festival will be held near the horse sculpture "Shared Destinies" by the college's front entrance on Molalla Ave. Volunteers are needed anytime from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. on that day. Funds will go to Associated Student Government for child care and textbook grants.

TONI MCMICHAEL / Clackamas Print