

Glorianne Muggli
is ASG Vice-President-Elect
Page 6

First Annual Arts
and Awareness
Festival on campus
Page 3

THE CLACKAMAS PRINT

FILE COPY

Wednesday, May 24, 2000

Clackamas Community College

Oregon City, Oregon

Volume XXXIII, Issue 25

Instructor Bob Misley boogies down at Monday's Environmental Week celebration. Misley and the "High Desert Surf" band played for almost three hours in the Barlow Courtyard.

TIMOTHY A. BELL / Clackamas Print

Go Bob, Go Bob, it's your birthday

The fifth annual environmental week is off and running with events happening all this week, on campus from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DIANA SCRIVNER
Associate News Editor

Bands are playing outside and tables are set up with information about environmental issues. What is this all about, you may ask as you walk through the courtyard enjoying the music. The fifth annual Environmental Week is off and running at Clackamas.

"We started it to raise the awareness of faculty and the student body at Clackamas on environmental issues," said Ken Eshelman, H.E.E.L. (Helping Everyone's Environment Live) Club coordinator.

The idea for Environmental Week was born at an Oregon State University (OSU) event called "waste day". OSU students collected all of the trash from the campus for a week and then dumped it onto tarps, where they sorted out all the recyclable material. The volunteers worked in a prominent area of campus so that students could see how much recyclable waste they were throwing away.

When approached with the idea of having a waste day at Clackamas, faculty and students agreed that having a week to raise awareness would be more beneficial, Eshelman explained.

Various speakers will promote different environmental and other life issues from the bandstand from 11:55-12:10, daily. Also daily, The Environmental Learning Center (ELC) will host Earth Walks from 1-1:30 p.m., and a band will perform in the lower courtyard from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. (See Sidebar). Tables set up in the upper courtyard, outside of the Community Center, will offer information and literature about a wide range of issues, including such controversial subjects as marijuana and abortion.

"A lot of what we do is very controversial to people," said Eshelman. "We want to bring different points of view for people to consider whether they agree with them or not; we want to broaden people's perspectives."

One such controversial event is the "Death Penalty Forum," held today at 11:30 a.m. in the Gregory Forum. Members of the Life for Life Committee, a group that believes in eliminating the death penalty, will speak. Speakers include: Rachel Hardesty of Life for Life; Tom Potter, retired Portland police chief; and Michelle Kohler of SAFES (Survivors Advocating for an Effective System).

TIMOTHY A. BELL / Clackamas Print

Misley, guitarist, Johnny Kullo, drummer, Blaine Moody, surf guitar, and Paul Jones, bass, rock the campus for ASG sponsored Environmental Week.

"The name of our group is Helping Everyone's Environment Live, therefore we will have people from Alternative to Growth Oregon here (people who want to reduce population)," said Eshelman. "We will have material from Focus on the Family, a stridently pro-life organization; because it's considered that maybe there is an environment there where someone needs to live.

"We are presenting both points of view, both sides of the spectrum for people to consider and that is what we think a college campus should do. A college campus is the perfect forum to present different points of view for people's enlightenment," concluded Eshelman.

Environmental Week, which runs through Saturday May 27, is hosted by the Associated Student Government (ASG), the H.E.E.L. Club, Phi Theta Kappa (Clackamas' chapter of the national honor society), the CCC Music Department, Chartwells, the Skills Development Department, Campus Services, CCC Life Sciences Department, The Print, John Inskeep's Environmental Learning Center, CCC Duplication, CCC Publications and the Coyote Club (formerly the Native American Club.)

For more information contact the ASG in CC140 or at ext. 2245.

Environmental Week Events:

Daily:
Earth walks: 1-1:30 p.m. at the Environmental Learning Center.
Today:
H.E.E.L. Bar-B-Que: 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Life for Life Presentation: Gregory Forum 11:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.
Newell Creek Watershed Volunteer Project: From 12:30 - 3:30 p.m., open for any one to come for as long as they want. For directions to Newell Creek, call ext. 2247.

Band: W.W.W.D Jazz Band. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. in lower courtyard.

Thursday:
Hawk Haven Presentation: Skylight Dining Room from 11 a.m. - 12 p.m.
John Snively Presents: "The State of Our National Parks" in CC127, 12-1 p.m.

Band: Clackamas Mainstream Jazz Choir. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. lower courtyard.

Friday:
Lost Forest Trip: Coordinated by Bob Misley, it is a four day trip to BLM Lost Forest Research Natural Area. For info, contact Misley at ext. 2376.
Pacific Green Party: 11:55 a.m. to 12:10

p.m., from the bandstand
Band: The Sugar Daddies: 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. lower courtyard.

Saturday:
Native American Pow-wow: Randal Gym 12 p.m. - 7 p.m.
Band: Channel Light: 12-1 p.m. in Courtyard.