Jim Martineau, former CCC student, Cougar basketball player and current head coach of the women's basketball team, has recently been hired as a full-time Health and Physical Education Instructor.

Martineau began here in 1997 as the assistant coach of the women's basketball team. In 1998, he became the head women's basketball coach and part-time Health and Physical Education instructor.

When he starts as full-time Health and Physical Education instructor in the Fall term, Martineau will be teaching a variety of classes, including personal health, nutrition and weight control, health and fitness classes, weight training, basketball and a number of others. His favorite is the nutrition classes.

"I really enjoy the nutrition classes. Nutrition is one of my favorite topics to talk about," said

Martineau. "There is a good interest in the class. A lot of kids are interested in nutrition and weight control."

As a full-time teacher and the head coach of a successful basketball team, Martineau will be challenged.

"Probably the hardest thing is balance between the two parts of the job, the coaching part of it and the teaching part of it," said Martineau. "Both are equally important."

Martineau has enjoyed the last five years here at Clackamas, which includes his time as a student. He says it's because of the people.

"I enjoy the faculty. I enjoy the people I work with. The rest of the coaching staff and the health, P.E. instructional staff are all good people to work with," said Martineau. "I enjoy the age of the students that are here at Clackamas and dealing with a more mature group of students than you get at a high school."

"Nutrition is one of my favorite topics to talk about."
