It's a classic Catch-22. To prepare yourself for life in the real world, you head off to college. You work hard. You get good grades.

And several years later you emerge in the real world - only to be rudely awakened by what little resemblance it bears to college. A place with completely different rules, different challenges, different demands.

But what if there were a college that really did prepare you to tackle the real world?

What if it exposed you to the things you'll really have to deal with day to day? Taught you the essential skills you'll need to succeed. Gave you the chance to fully experience your chosen field before it all becomes chiseled in stone.

That, in the simplest possible terms, is the kind of education we offer at Portland State.

An education that delivers all the best the theoretical academic world has to offer, but not without thoroughly immersing you in the practical, relevant world.

To learn more, phone (503)725-9983 or visit us at www.pdx.edu. And make your debut in the world armed with street smarts as well as book smarts.

IF COLLEGE IS SUPPOSED TO PREPARE YOU FOR THE REAL WORLD, HOW COME THE REAL WORLD ISN'T MORE LIKE COLLEGE?
