life, is a box filled with valuable objects, memories are antique glass film negatives painting colorful remembrances. Fragile yellow pages of manuscripts, in chalky ink, tell our stories of long past. A special trinket, a bauble, or a doll from a foreign country can remind of what once was. When the box leaves us, taken or released, it's lifetime of stories depart our hands but remain nested as imparted knowledge within all fortunate enough to have been given a glimpse into a life rich with love and fulfillment.
