

MT. ST. HELENS GEOLOGY TREK

Geology students, along with their instructor, Sarah Hoover, left the Clackamas Community College campus early Saturday morning, bound for Mt. St. Helens. They visited several sites, giving them a realistic perspective of what they learn in class.

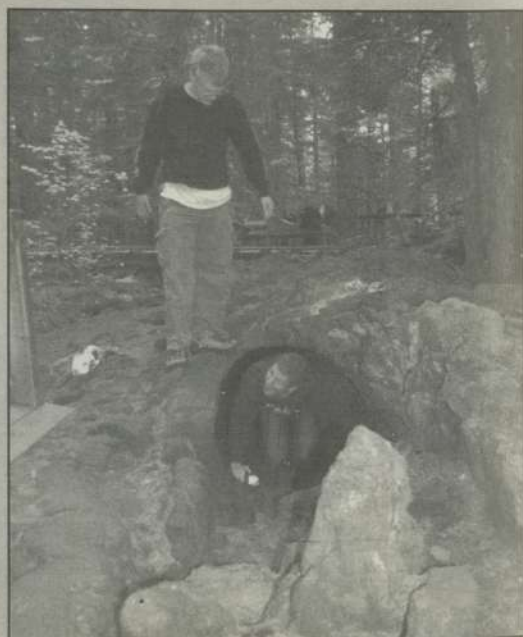

LEFT: Geology instructor Sarah Hoover with her Geology 101 and 201 students break for lunch and a group photo in the forest.

RIGHT: Clockwise from top - Liz McCoy, Matt Morrison and Erik Edberg go for a "hands-on" experience in Lava Canyon.

BELOW: Geology students head across Lahar Viewpoint to see a pyroclastic flow area.

RIGHT: Erik Edberg waits for Bob Alsman to climb out of a lava tube in the Trail of Two Forests.

BELOW: Students emerge from a lava tube at Ape Caves after a two-mile round-trip hike.

All photos by Juno Dean Clackamas Print