

Robert Crawford Clackamas Print

Brita Filta lip syncs to "These Boots Were Made for Walking" by Nancy Sinatra as she gives one of the many student spectators a mid-song rub-down in the Bill Brod Community Center last Wednesday.

Girl, no you Didn't

Last Wednesday, drag queens, professional and amateur alike, invaded Clackamas' Bill Brod Community Center for charity. Some judged and some competed, but everyone took a walk on the wild side.

Lydia Bashaw Clackamas Print

Lydia Bashaw Clackamas Print

Robert Crawford Clackamas Print

LEFT: Sable Scities jumps up from the splits in the middle of performing "Out Tonight" by Rosario Dawson.

MIDDLE: After trading her blonde locks for red beehive, Jennifer ties belts out, or pretends to, Winona Judd's cover of "I Want to Know What Love Is" to Know What Love Is.

RIGHT: Kamel Toe, a former CCC student, discovered and hosted by Embers Avenue Clackamas' first show, performs while hosting the event.

Contestants

Emily Walters Clackamas Print

Lydia Bashaw Clackamas Print

Emily Walters Clackamas Print

LEFT: Mathew Spencer performs a sultry routine to wow the judges. A half dozen men and women performed in the drag show.

MIDDLE: Jadon performs two routines, including one in a hip-hop style.

RIGHT: Lydia Bashaw and Matt Garrison, members of The Clackamas Print, took first place in the contest, winning a $50 gift certificate to Bugatti's Restaurant and a free trip to the movie theater.

Robert Crawford Clackamas Print

The Judges

Jersey Scities
(Left)

Performed to:

"Say it Right" by Nelly Furtado

"I Want to Know What Love Is" by Winona Judd

Fun fact: Boobs made out of rice

Brita Filta
(Middle)

Performed to:

"These Boots Were Made for Walking" by Nancy Sinatra

Could be confused with ...

Jennifer Lopez

Sable Scities
(Right)

Performed to:

"Song for the Lonely" by Chaka Khan

"Out Tonight" by Rosario Dawson

Fun fact: Sable the featured drag act at The Embers Avenue