

CCC offers resources for job options

Brad Heineke Clackamas Print

Kat Perez speaks with Dannah Bakkum, an administrative assistant for enrollment services. Bakkum is in the Work Study program and works about 10 hours per week.

By Jessica Horner
The Clackamas Print

The Community Center on campus is the place to go when wondering where to look for job opportunities. Bailee Sanders, the vice president of the Associated Student Government and Lisa Dye, a financial aid specialist at Enrollment Services on campus were informative of places to look when wanting a job or volunteer work.

An option for students with lower incomes is the Work Study program. It is funded by the federal government and awarded based on financial aid. The award is based on first come first serve.

"Students are able to be employed on campus and earn award money that way," explained Dye.

Work Study is a great opportunity to earn money for school. The best part is that it is not like a loan because the students are instantly paid by working.

A simple tip to finding job and volunteer opportunities on and off campus is looking at community boards around campus. There are helpful flyers and postings up in the Community Center to be helpful.

The student government has great volunteer opportunities. Ways to volunteer on campus include helping teachers with grading internships with a specific area of study. If that is not of interest there are also volunteer opportunities for the advising and counseling center on campus.

Is volunteering a pass for a class? There is a class on campus where it is possible to volunteer in the community while getting credit for it.

"It's basically an opportunity for volunteer and be able to get a credit," stated Mindy Dye, department chair of student government.

The class is called service learning. There is a beginning course and a two credit course to follow taking the first.

To find more information contact a look at the class description contact Brown at (503) 657-2250 or e-mail her at dyb@clackamas.edu.

For more information on the Work Study program, contact Lisa Dye at (503) 657-6958 ext. 2309 or mail her at lisd@clackamas.edu.

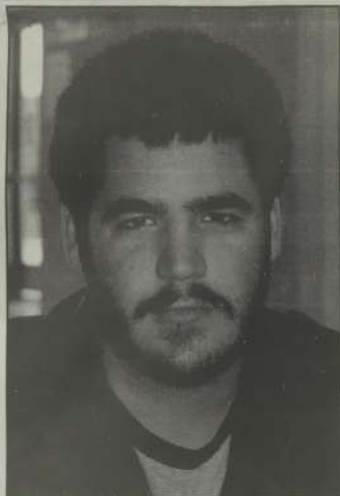

Student Poll

Where do you think is the best place to find a job?

“

Online.

Jackie Syth
student

“

Besides Work Study, Monster.com.

Tiffany Vess
student

“

A job placement center near McLoughlin (Boulevard), other than that I don't know.

Latisha Burley
student

“

Sorry, I haven't been to many career resource centers lately.

Steven Price
student

Clackamas Print

The Clackamas Print
19600 S. Molalla Ave.
Oregon City, OR 97045
503-657-6958, ext. 2309

Co-Editor in Chief: Kayla Berge
Co-Editor in Chief: John Hurlburt
Copy Editor: Kayla Calloway
News Editor: Abigail Neet
Associate News Editor: Annemarie Schulte
A&C Editor: Matthew Ostergren
Sports Editor: Mark Foster
Photo Editor: John Shufelt
Web Editor: Brad Heineke

Ad Manager: Meredith James
Design Editor: Kelsey Schneider
Staff Writers/ Photographers: Erik Andersen, Dale Balbi, Carlos Calderon, Robert Crawford, Matt Garrison, Jessica Foster, Jessica Horner, Javierh Montero, John Petty, Brian Steele, Steven Weldon, Mark Sunderland

Production Assistants: Jaime Dunkle, Corey Romick, Jessica Sheppard

Journalism Adviser: Melissa Jones

GOALS: The Clackamas Print aims to report the news in an honest, unbiased, professional manner. The opinions expressed do not necessarily reflect those of the student body, college administration, its faculty or The Print. E-mail comments to chieft@clackamas.edu.