

Lovecraft measures the balloons

Elections take place on November 2, and the last day to register was yesterday, October 12. To quench your political thirst, enjoy these rewritten measures.

Reading the measures can be a tedious mission. To make it more fun, we have rewritten them in the vein of two commended horror authors: Edgar Allan Poe and H.P. Lovecraft.

Measure 70

Few soldiers are stopped at the gate. It's not too late. If you desire, vote "yes" and get these men into homes where they'll be called "Sire."

Measure 71

In the den of Oregon politicians, a plea of "yes" will require them to meet once a year, with a limit to 160 calendar days to regular sessions of odd numbered years and 35 days in even numbered years. Plea "nay" and continue to be surprised.

Measure 72

Do you have deep pockets, sir? A "yes" vote will allow the state to exceed $50,000 on bonds for their property. My, your coins look ... tempting.

Measure 73

Unhappy is the creepy sex offender repeating abominable acts, if this measure is passed. Increased sentencing will leave them aghast. Habitual DUI convictions share the task.

Measure 74

Harmony will reign when medical marijuana ceases to be misunderstood by the misinformed. With this measure more research and assistant programs for cardholders will be born.

Measure 75

The City of Roses will soon see the glistening of gold, if Multnomah County allows casinos into its fold.

Measure 76

Lottery will pay 15 percent of proceeds to silence the screaming trees of our parks, wildlife and beaches until 2014.

For a longer and more detailed explanation of the measures, and for descriptions of measures not listed here, please read your complimentary voter's pamphlet or Google it.
