

Art department offers diverse selection of classes for students at Clackamas

Photos by Bird Heinle/The Clackamas Print

Top left: Sparks fly as Kyle Seidel grinds down a section of metal pipe for a sculpture in the art class he is taking (ART-291).

Top right: Mandelynn MacDonald prepares a pottery piece for the kiln by brushing on glaze during her ceramics class (ART-250/ART-253).

Bottom left: Using the end of a paintbrush, Gary Shelton works on some print etching in a drawing class (ART-131).

Bottom right: Tiffany Lammers looks through her developed negatives outside of the darkroom for photography (ART-161) in the Art Center.