

A quiet Friday turns into first annual "Pie Your Professor"

Top photo: Far left Kathleen Hollingsworth, music instructor and event coordinator, stands in front of Niemeyer with fellow music department employees introducing the first annual Pie Your Professor. The Starbucks bag Hollingsworth is holding has all of the tickets that students bought for $3 a piece to help raise money for the band and choir groups. They planned to split the funds.

Above: Hollingsworth draws a name out of the Starbucks bag but pulls out her own name. She does a few twirls and points to the audience to give one of the students a chance to pie the professor of their choice.

Aulani Wehage, an administrative assistant for the music department, pies Brian Rose, the chair of the music department. The crowd cheers as Wehage smashes a caramel pie in Rose's face.

The lucky student that Hollingsworth randomly chooses is Peter Judge, who is a band student on campus. He pies Mark Campbell, an instrumental instructor for the college.
