Professor CLACKAMAS

Dear Professor Clackamas,
Why was I asked to pay up front when I registered for winter term? It's never been that way before.

-Sincerely, Freaked Out

Dear Freaked, that's a good question. Registering at Clackamas Community College has always sort of felt like walking around in circles, in the dark, with a blindfold while getting shot at. However, having to pay at the time of registration has never been a fear for most students.

When students started registering online for winter 2015, that seemed to change; a message popped up saying payment was due at time of registration, and many students were left staring at a screen asking, 'What the Hell?'

According to student accounts, nothing has changed from the previous terms of registering, they're only making it more obvious to see that the charge is being added to their accounts.

If you haven't paid by Friday of week 2 in winter term, $30 will be added to the account balance as a late payment fee.

So never fear, Freaked. They're only trying to scare you a little.

Sincerely and always irritated,
Professor Clackamas
