Clackamas Community College's contract is up with the vendor who runs the Cougar Cafe, Jewel Hospitality, and some changes are planned for each campus.

The contract will be changing, but Jewel, who was formerly known as Trio hospitality, will still run the grill section of the cafe with hot options such as breakfast burritos, burgers, fries, tater tots and chicken strips continuing to be served. Pizza by the slice will be served on weekdays as well.

Each of CCC's campuses will have vending machines installed that are stocked with fresh options such as salads, sandwiches and fruit. The machines will be installed this summer around the college and will replace the grab-and-go section of the Oregon City campus. Minor modifications will be made to the Cougar Cafe to allow extended hours to access the vending machines and provide students a place to study and hang out.

Additionally, the college has begun inviting food trucks to each campus. The college is working with a food truck facilitator that allows a network of trucks to be able to choose to come to designated "hot spots" at CCC on any day of the week. The Street Food Finder app will allow people to see what trucks are at what campus, and can be accessed here:
