

FALL 2019 STUDENT GUIDE

BY ZACHARY WHITLEY
OPINION EDITOR

Photo by Jonathan Villagomez

Whether it's your first term at Clackamas Community College, or you're many years in, it's important to know about the many on-campus resources available to you.

The Basics: If you've never set foot on campus before, you're gonna want to familiarize yourself with these online and on-campus resources.

To access most student information, myClackamas is where you're going to want to go. You can reach this by going to the CCC website www.clackamas.edu, and clicking on the myClackamas link. Additionally, you can find the link to your student email and the link to Moodle.

To see your classwork, grades, quizzes, and more, Moodle is your destination. In most classes, you're going to be using Moodle a large portion of the time. Moodle can be accessed at online.clackamas.edu. If you need help accessing the shell, or are unsure how it functions, CCC has an available phone number at 503-594-6310 or you can access more help through the original website link.

To access free databases, journals, books, and more, CCC's library website has a separate link to find this information. Simply go to <http://libguides.clackamas.edu/home> and a plethora of information will be at your fingertips; if you're a new student, be especially sure to check out the CCC library located in the Dye Learning Center.

To schedule online appointments for tutoring, use <https://clackamas.mywconline.com>. Tutoring in the areas of writing, math, and accounting are readily available for online scheduling, as well as in person — more subject areas are available in the Dye Learning Center.

Top, the Community Center on the Oregon City campus. Bottom, Oregon City campus map.