The newly remodeled STEDCO Building houses a new classroom, complete with computers. One of the many uses of the new educational classroom is the Siletz Alternative School. Students can study, complete homework, work on the computer, access the internet, obtain tutoring and assistance, while working towards their high school completion requirements and/or obtaining their GED. Many tribal students would not be graduating or completing their education if the Alternative School were not available. Stop by and visit the new building and classroom.
