In Memory of George Thompson

by Mary Jane Robb

*Life spins its threads
of sunshine and shadows
into the tapestry of being.
Memories rush in
like distant echoes.
So it is this day
and I remember George.
I knew his parents well
and they were people of worth by any man's measure.
Then there were two little boys
George and Snooks.
They grew tall and strong.
They were my son's friends and one day a long time ago
in the old high school gym
I heard the wail of George's trumpet played with the skill of the Angel Gabriel.
So, in this hour of departure,
I think of George and Snooks,
Tommy and Toots, together again,
and I hear the wail of a trumpet.
God and the Angel Gabriel are listening.*
