Business and You!

Planning Ahead – An Important Part of Any Business

One of the keys to maintaining a successful business is planning ahead.

Too often, business owners get their business going and if they experience some degree of success, think that all they have to do after that is sit back and the business will take care of itself.

Planning ahead is essential if you expect your business to continue to prosper. Some of the things you need to plan for include:

- Potential growth
- Possible move to a larger location
- Hiring additional employees
- Purchasing additional equipment
- Increasing your capabilities and the number of customers you can serve
- Competition (a similar business may open in your area, taking away some of your customer base)

Don't forget finances will be an important part of any type of long-range business planning that you do. Do you have enough financial resources available to meet future needs or will you need to get a loan to provide funding?

If you think you might need additional funding or a loan, contact the bank or credit union you do business with and find out what kind of documentation you would need to provide to be considered.

Whether your business is large or small, the time to plan for the future of your business is now!

If you have a specific business question, send an e-mail to me at rsufficool@stbcorp.net or call 541-994-2142 or 1-877-564-7298.
