Youth Inspired By, Learn Skills at Leadership Conference

Several Siletz youth took part in the Native Youth Leadership Conference in Grand Ronde in early May.

Howard Rainer, administrator of Native American Education Outreach Programs at Brigham Young University, and Jillene Joseph, executive director of the Native Wellness Institute, were keynote speakers at the two-day conference.

On the first night, conference-goers shared in the songs and dances of the Grand Ronde Tribe in the Tribe's new Long House.

Workshops at the conference for middle school and high school youth included such topics as The Power of Self-Discovery, You Are Somebody, Wisdom & Power of the Medicine Wheel, Native is a State of Change, Native Pride Flows in You and Making Plans to Succeed in Life.

Leadership Session Changed

The leadership development session facilitated by Tiffany Wisdom planned for June 18 has been canceled.
